Thousands Stand To Catch Glimpse Of Those At Ball

Youngsters Adopt Fifth Opportunity

Mothers of Two, Grandmother of Third promise To Contribute Funds To Permit 17-Year-Old Boy To Finish High School and Become Breadwinner for Mother.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Three young Atlantans, themselves of school age, yesterday had to the rescue of the 17-year-old boy whose ambition to finish high school was told you yesterday morning as Opportunity No. 5.

Through their mothers and grandmothers these three have guaranteed William M. and his mother that they will have the $25 monthly they need to hold body and soul together while William completes his high school education.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Atlanta last night added a chapter which wrote a happy ending to "Gone With the Wind."

The money to help this Opportunity family was pledged by Mrs. Toxey Whittaker Sr., for Toxey Whittaker Jr. (aged 10, almost 11); Mrs. Will R. Beck, for her daughter, Miss Martha Beck, and by Mrs. C. A. Wikle, for her grandson, Bill Wikle.

The Constitution, which for years has sponsored the Ten Opportunity families in co-operation with the Family Welfare Society, wishes to thank Toxey Jr., Miss Martha and Bill, and, of course, their mothers and grandmother, for their generosity.

But we salute something more than just generosity. We appreciate the desire of this family to help other families. We want them to know we appreciate their wish to contribute to a fund which

RAIDER CAN STAY AT MONTEVIDEO

As British Armada Gatherers, Graf Spee Wins Time to Repair Damage.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—British airmen, just returned from a smashing air battle over the North sea, reported today they had seen a section of the German fleet near the scene of the World War Battle of Jutland.

By HAROLD K. MILKS.

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The shell-battered Nazi pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, playing a dangerous game of cat and mouse with a gathering British battle-fleet, tonight won Uruguayan permission to remain in this neutral port until she can repair the damage suffered in the war's first great sea fight.

The Uruguayan foreign minister, Alberto Guani, tonight announced that "in accordance with the Uruguayan neutrality law and international law," the Graf Spee could stay in Montevideo harbor, on request of the German government, pending repairs.

Then one day, the company for which he worked merged with another in a similar line and Mr. E. was out of a job. Tragedy seldom seems to stop with one blow and Mr. Ed. had another coming. Mrs. E., in frail health for some time, had to have an operation and long medical treatment. Bills mounted with amazing rapidity and Mr. E.—still supporting his dead sister's four children—had no income.

Desperate, he mortgaged his home and his furniture and opened a small store. It didn't do well and he hadn't the capital to keep it going until it would become a paying proposition. Recently, the mortgage-holder foreclosed on him—took his home, and his store.

Mr. and Mrs. E. and the four neices and nephews moved into

Police Officers Unable to Control Thousands 20 Deep on City Streets.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Three hundred thousand persons on the streets saw Clark Gable in Atlanta yesterday.

They had only a fleeting glance but they were happy.

For more than two hours they completely paralyzed downtown traffic.

From Forsyth and Brotherton streets to the Georgian Terrace hotel, the crowds lined the way—10, 15 and often 20 deep.

Whitehall and Peachtree streets from 3 o'clock until after the parade passed at 5 o'clock, were completely closed to all traffic.

Traffic at Five Points, the heart of downtown Atlanta, was at a complete standstill from 3 o'clock on. The gigantic crowds began forming at noon and surged out into the streets to make the famed corner absolutely impassable.

Along the parade route police-men stationed at every intersection found themselves helpless in controlling the crowds, who pushed from the sidewalks into the streets and closed every intersection to all vehicular traffic.

Close inspection of the crippled raider indicated the need of extensive repairs.

Meanwhile, the British cruiser Exeter, damaged and forced out of the battle which drove the Adm-miral Graf Spee to refuge here last night was approaching the Argentine naval base at Puerto Belgrano, seeking to drydock for

beds were prepared there for her wounded.

The 36 who died aboard the Admiral Graf Spee in yesterday's battle will be buried tomorrow in North cemetery which lies in the heart of Montevideo.

The coffins will be borne to the

Brilliant Ball To Live In Hearts Forever

Gay Affair, Attended by Throng of Celebrities, Goes Down in History as One Which Participants Will Describe Again and Again to Grandchildren.

By ANNIE LOU HARDY.

Atlanta never saw anything like it before! Nor expects to again. For it was the superlative of all parties.

That, my dears, was the Junior League ball!

It would take filmdom's most stupendous adjectives and Margaret Mitchell at her eloquent best to do justice to the grand affair held last night in the city auditorium as a gay and exciting prelude to Atlanta's world premiere of "Gone With the Wind."

In brief, the Junior League made social history—history that you will relate to your grandchildren some day, mark my word.

Not even the days when southern society thronged the auditorium for Grand Opera challenged last night's color and brilliance—which is something of a record, if that you can't remember that far back.

Literally everybody was there! The Rockefellers and the Vanderbilts, the Cromwells and Whitneys, Rickenbackers and Swoopes, to say nothing of Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh, Claudette Colbert and Carole Lombard, Laurence Olivier and Kay Kyser, and scores of others whose names are news any day of the week. In fact there were so many celebrities present that you forgot to be impressed at the mention of a mere foreign minister or another bank president.

And what a scene it was! Characteristic Junior League cleverness had turned back the calendar to Civil War days and recreated, brick by brick, with two corners gone so far.

WHAT WAS SHE WEARING?

The Constitution staff reports on who wore what to the ball in an alphabetical listing which starts on Page 18. Other news of the ball and "GWTW" festivities appears in Pages 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21.

CHEERING 300,000 HAIL CLARK GABLE IN WILD WELCOME

Many Notables in Parade, But Eyes Seek 'Rhett,' Young, Old, Men, Women Acclaim.

By WILLARD COPE.

It was Gable's show.

A bronzed and debonair Gable—a very "Rhett Butler" of a man—came into Atlanta late yesterday afternoon to the largest, most spontaneous, often hysterical demonstration which Atlanta ever has seen.

It was Gable all through, this time.

His wife, Carole Lombard, gracious and charming, sat beside him and shared in the adulatory cheers and gestures, from what must have been at least 300,000 people lining roads and streets from the Candler airport to the Georgian Terrace. But Gable was the one they were looking for.

Scream Recognition.

It was because of him that they screamed in sudden recognition, wriggled and jumped up and down in excitement, shouted, "You old woman killer!" grabbed each other for joy at seeing him at last in the flesh.

Not only women and young girls, not only boys; but elderly women, mature men, men in overalls and men in extremely prosperous attire—even the Boy Scouts and, wonder of wonders, the cops at the street intersections trying to hold back the mob—they all felt the passing-by of this man with the fresh, masculine, kindly face.

Truly Gable has something!

None could remember the equal of the reception accorded this

EDISON TO REVIEW
NAVAL R. O. T. C. HERE
Charles A. Edison, acting secretary of the navy and son of the late inventor, will review the naval R. O. T. C. unit at Georgia Tech this morning at 11:45 a. m.
Mr. Edison, who has headed the United States navy since the death of Claude Swanson, is one of the Washington dignitaries here for the "Gone With the Wind" celebration.

TWO MOVIE THEATERS IN ENGLAND BOMBED
BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 14. (AP)—Bombs exploded in two movie theaters tonight several hours after a Birmingham court had pronounced the first death sentence in the campaign of terror by the anti-British Irish Republican army.
The flash-type bombs caused only a slight damage, however, and no one was injured.

TRY TO LINK NLRB IN UNION BOYCOTT

Investigator Says He Saw Letters Between Board Member and Strike
Official.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—With records taken from the files of the National Labor Relations Board, counsel for a house investigating committee attempted today to show that Edwin S. Smith, a member of the board, had assisted a union in promoting a boycott against a huge Pennsylvania hosiery mill.

Edmund M. Toland, attorney for the committee investigating operations of the Wagner act, brought the subject up while questioning an aide, Roger Robb, about what he found in examining 60 file cabinets crammed with board documents.

At the outset Toland read a statement by Robb saying that the American Federation of Hosiery Workers had called a strike at the Berkshire Knitting Mills, Reading, Pa., in the fall of 1936, although the union's membership included less than 500 of the company's 6,000 workers.

Robb said he had found correspondence between Smith and John Edelman, an officer of the union, in which Edelman advised that a boycott would be undertaken.

Smith, the witness said, transmitted the information he had received from Edelman to Louis Kirschen, an officer of Filene's department store in Boston. Smith once was employment manager for Filene's.

Robb testified that no charges against the hosiery company had been filed with the labor board at the time of the correspondence.

Carroll County's Marrying Squire Unites 798 Couples, Picks a Wife

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
CARROLLTON, Ga., Dec. 14.—Cross Plains community, has taken unto himself a wife. If he had waited for just two more weddings, he could have squared off with an even 800, but the squire wasn't interested in a record when he was married to Mrs. Alice Davis at her home near Villa Rica. M. E. Griffin, the Carroll county ordinary, performed the ceremony.

The genial squire has been a member of the Carroll county executive committee since 1892, and a justice of the peace for his district since 1894. He has been a resident of the Cross Plains district all his life, and has always been active in community and church affairs.

"It is true that I have married 798 couples during the past 45 years," he explained, "and I have always advised the couples to take their vows seriously and to try to love one another regardless of unforeseen difficulties that might arise. Whether or not the talks I gave them did any good, I can remember but a paltry few divorces among the young people I married."

EX-GOVERNOR LECHE INDICTED THIRD TIME

LAKE CHARLES, La., Dec. 14. (P)—Former Governor Richard W. Leche and an Alexandria truck driver, George D. Younger, were named today in a federal indictment charging them and another former state official with mail fraud. The Agriculture Department reported today sugar delivered to the American market totaled 5,901,696 short tons, raw value, during the first ten months of this year. Deliveries during the corresponding period last year were 5,517,860 tons.

Sources of the deliveries were: Raw sugar by refiners 5,747 short tons; refined sugar by refiners 3,817,534; beet sugar processors 1,458,215; refined sugar by importers 528,896, and refined sugar by mainland cane mills 91,304.

FAIRBANKS' FRIENDS TO ACT AS PALLBEARERS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(P)—Six close friends of Douglas Fairbanks Sr. will act as pallbearers at his funeral tomorrow.

Actor Charles Chaplin, Theater Owner Sid Grauman, Film Executive Joseph M. Schenck, Scenarist Tom Geraghty, C. E. Erickson, Fairbanks' business manager, and Chuck Lewis, his trainer, will assist at the rites in the Wee Kirk of the Heather. Burial will be in a temporary crypt at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

The former motion picture star died of a heart attack Tuesday.

GOVERNORS DRAFT 10-YEAR PROGRAM TO ADVANCE SOUTH

Group Will Seek 'Prosperity Balance' for States in Area; Rivers Named Rate Fight Co-ordinator

Southern governors drafted an ambitious program of southern economics for the 1940-50 decade yesterday—then participated in a spectacle portraying the south of the 1860's.

The southern governors' conference will seek to achieve in the next 10 years a program of "prosperity balance" pegged upon balancing farms with factories, crops with livestock, and economic gains with human welfare advancement.

After a two-hour session, the five attending governors joined festivities heralding the world premiere screening of "Gone With the Wind," novel of the War Between the States.

Rivers Is Host.

Governor Rivers, of Georgia, was host at the festivities to the other chief executives, Fred Cone, of Florida; Prentiss Cooper, of Tennessee; Burnet R. Maybank, of South Carolina, and Frank Dixon, of Alabama.

The economic advance program will be drafted in detail and submitted to the conference at a later meeting by a three-man committee named by the governors. It is composed of President Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina; Editor Clarence Poe, of the Progressive Farmer, and Dean Paul Chapman, of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture.

Quotes McGill.

As the session convened, Chairman Rivers read a column from today's Atlanta Constitution, by Executive Editor Ralph McGill, commenting it was "splendid and appropriate" reading matter for the conference.

McGill cited the recent Interstate Commerce Commission ruling granting the south parity freight rates on certain articles and added:

"Parity does not exist for many others. This freight rate differential for years held a tariff wall in front of the south, was a tariff by a United States commission, unfairly and without reason penalizing the south."

Primary campaign of the governors' conference is to obtain parity rates on all articles and the Southern Association of Public Service Commissioners met with the governors today. Chairman Walter R. McDonald, of the Georgia P. S. C., summoned them as president.

Governor Rivers was named co-ordinator of the efforts of southern and southwestern states in their parity fight.

MOTOR CARRIER RATE PROBE IS DENIED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today denied a petition by approximately 50 railroads and steamship companies for an investigation of rates of competing motor carriers between eastern port cities and interior points in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee.

The railroads recently asked the commission for such an investigation with a view to prescribing "minimum lawful rates" by motor carriers. The petitioners said the present motor carrier rates between the north Atlantic ports and interior southeastern points generally were the same or lower than the water-rail rates. They contended the truck rates were unnecessarily low and deprive the water-rail carriers of a fair and reasonable opportunity to compete for this traffic."

'LOVE DYNAMITING' WITNESSES SPLIT

Man Placed at Scene and 100 Miles Away.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 14.—(P)—Two defense witnesses testified today that E. Ross Wyatt was busy with a family wash on the day he state alleges the schoolmaster prepared a dynamite bomb for the girl who had spurned his affections.

Mrs. J. J. Huffman, of Hemphill, and Mrs. Arch Wyatt, of San Augustine, the latter a sister-in-law, said Wyatt was in Hemphill helping them with the family washing on March 10, 1938, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

State witnesses testified Wyatt was in Shreveport, La., some 100 miles north of Hemphill, at 3 p.m., and that he bought 100 sticks of dynamite which, under the state's theory, were shoved into the bedroom of Miss Mary Jo Miller here July 26, 1938.

FIRST LADY OBJECTS TO REDS IN OFFICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a letter to the American Youth League made public today by League officials, said:

"I do not think a man should be appointed to position of trust in our government if he is a member of the Communist party and known to be an enemy of American institutions and known to be taking orders from a foreign power."

Mrs. Roosevelt's letter was in reply to a question regarding the appointment of a Communist to public office of trust, put to her by the league president, Winfield J. Demarest.

from Sally Saver's NOTE BOOK

Helps for Meal Planners.

Tomato juice cocktails, soups and luncheon plates are put on a party footing when served with poppy seed sticks. To make these sticks, brush strips of bread with melted margarine or butter, sprinkle with poppy seeds and toast. Serve hot.

Serve sliced baked ham in hot toasted buns for suppers. Complete the menu with scalloped corn or carrots, a tossed green salad and a fresh fruit cup.

Using Lima Beans in Salads.

For each service arrange two slices tomato on shredded lettuce; cover tomato with cold cooked limas and garnish with strips of anchovy and pimento. Serve with French dressing.

Tomato Stuffed Limas.

Peel tomatoes, remove centers and fill with cooked dried lima beans mixed lightly with mayonnaise. Place on lettuce, cover top with mayonnaise and place a row of cooked beans around the tomatoes for a garnish.

For the main dish on one of your busy shopping days try this:

Casserole of Spaghetti and Frizzled Beef.

Place a layer of cooked spaghetti in a buttered casserole, add a layer of dried beef which has been crisped in two tablespoons of margarine. Add another layer of spaghetti, another of frizzled beef and repeat until casserole is filled. Over this pour a cup of tomato sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese and bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

Flamingo Sweet Potatoes.

6 medium sweet potatoes, cooked 3-4 cup red currant jelly. 1-4 cup water.

PEACH MEN WEIGH LEGISLATIVE PLANS

1940 Campaign Fund Now Almost Double That of Last Year.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 14.—(P)—Georgia peach growers, at their annual fall meeting here today, discussed legislation to better their industry, heard addresses by four leaders in the food industry, and boosted their 1940 promotion campaign.

President Wilmer M. Dickey, of Milledgeville, appointed a committee to draft legislative proposals to be submitted at the annual meeting in March.

G. Emmett Snellgrove, executive secretary of the Georgia Association of Peach Growers, announced after the all-day meeting that the 1940 campaign fund has been almost doubled.

Principal speaker at the closing session was Sturges Dorrance, advertising and merchandising counsel to the Georgia-Carolina Peach Marketing Board, who reviewed progress made by the association through its first year's advertising campaign and outlined plans for the 1940 campaign.

Speakers at the morning session were Aubrey Milam, James D. Godfrey, Charles C. Morgan and Cyrus B. Denman.

Old Troup Records Reveal $1,494,840 Drop.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

'LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 14.—The wholesale brushing of dust from the 19th century has brought to light the fact that Troup county taxable property before and at the time of the War Between the States had greater value than present-day taxable property.

The county digest of 1857 lists the total value at $11,366,778, while the present-day figure is $8,871,938, less personal property and homestead exemptions, and plus an approximate $1,500,000 value in public service operations.

Revival of "Mammy" and "Pork" of G. W. T. W. days calls attention, likewise, to the fact that pre-war records show citizens of Troup county owning 9,369 slaves which were returned for taxation. Negroes averaged in value between $700 and $800.

The highest value was set upon the negro of Bogart and Fokes, LaGrange business concern, who was valued at $1,400. Two other slaves were valued at $1,200 each, records show.

BRITISH TOLD TO KEEP CHILDREN IN COUNTRY

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today urged London parents not to bring their children home from the country for Christmas, and said today that the same longing for peaceful family unity might be denied in many homes in all belligerent countries.

"The responsibility of those who, for their own ambition, have imposed such tragedy on the world is terrible indeed," Chamberlain said.

"Yet, for us in this country, the message of Christmas is not in truth a tragic contrast, but a reminder that we are fighting to defend the principles and ideals which for 2,000 years have inspired the minds of men and lifted up their hearts."

24 Carloads Of Squashes For the Needy

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14.—(P)—A big squash crisis came to Cleveland today in the wake of a relief-financing crisis just ended.

When the city ran short of relief funds late in November the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation doubled its normal shipments to help care for the needy. Among 100 cars already unloaded or on their way to Cleveland are 24 of squash—100,000 squashes, a million pounds of them.

Result: Indigent housewives today were receiving recipes for baked squash, steamed squash, boiled squash, squash with apples, squash soup.

Insist on a "Balanced" Vitamin Routine

To get the full benefits of taking vitamins, be sure you are getting an adequate supply of all the vitamins. Many products claiming to supply a number of vitamins actually supply fractions of amounts of several of them (usually A and D) at a time, and in amounts of others (usually B and E). Other products omit some vitamins completely (usually C).

"Daily" vitamins supply a "balanced" vitamin routine. They provide the only way to get all the benefits of full requirements (optimum amounts) of vitamins by taking only one small capsule a day. One capsule, taken daily as scheduled, provides:

Vitamin A 105,000 U.S.P. units per week

Vitamin B 1,800 International units per week

Vitamin C 1,800 International units per week

Vitamin D 6,000 U.S.P. units per week

HUSBAND IS HELD IN DEATH OF WIFE

Grandchildren Watch Shoot-
Apartment.

While two terrified grandchildren looked on, Joe Cephus McCoy, 46-year-old meat cutter, early last night shot his wife to death and then unsuccessfully attempted to end his own life, police reported.

The shooting took place at the McCoy apartment at 183½ Pine street, N. E., at a few minutes after 7 o'clock police said. An hour later, McCoy gave himself up at police station.

He was booked on a charge of "suspicion of murder" but refused to make a statement.

The dead woman, who was 46, also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jack Melton, and her father and mother. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Brandon-Bond Condol.

Plane Spotted Dropping Mine

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Captain Robert A. Smith, of the U. S. liner American Merchant, arrived today with a word-picture of a Nazi seaplane dropping a mine by parachute in the Thames river under heavy British antiaircraft fire.

Smith said the American Merchant, last of the 11 vessels to leave the war zone, anchored there November 22. That night, he said, the German seaplane appeared at an elevation of 1,500 feet and about 200 yards off the liner's anchorage.

"It was a marvelous sight," said, relating how the aerial mine-layer darted in and out among the flapping rays of 30 shore searchlights. The seaplane, he said, returned shore fire with two guns.

"You could see the shells and the tracer bullets," Captain Smith said, "and they looked like fire-works."

The German plane, after a furious 10-minute battle, dipped abruptly, released a mine by parachute near the American ship, one of 30 anchored there, and then flew out to sea.

Hailed as Sea Victor

Commodore H. H. Harwood, commander of the south Atlantic division of the American East Indies squadron of Great Britain's navy, was hailed in London yesterday as victor in the fierce battle between three British cruisers and the German raider Admiral Graf Spee. The commodore's flagship is the cruiser Ajax.

Arena of Slashing Fight

Acme Telephoto.

Zone of battle between British cruisers and Admiral Graf Spee is marked by a cross. Dotted line limits the neutrality belt.

U. S. Studies Naval Battle

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The administration sought today all the information it could get on the British-German naval engagement off the shores of Uruguay to determine whether the battle was a violation of the Western Hemisphere neutrality zone.

If the sea fight is regarded as such a violation, consultations will be held with the other American republics to decide upon common action.

Secretary Hull emphasized that common action among the republics to enforce the zone did not involve the use of force.

He revealed that the Uruguayan government was permitting the Admiral Graf Spee to remain in Montevideo harbor 48 hours, and even longer if she requested re-pairs.

Envoy Telephones.

Edwin C. Wilson, American minister to Uruguay, telephoned the State Department from Montevideo that the first engagement between the German pocket battleship and the three British cruisers was reported to have taken place 200 miles off shore.

A position 200 miles off Uruguay would be within the neutrality area.

The second and third engagements, Mr. Wilson reported, "took place not very far off the Uruguayan coast outside territorial waters, but some reports said about 12 sea miles."

Sinkings Reported.

Officials were interested in unconfirmed reports that two British merchantmen were sunk at the beginning of the engagement.

If merchant ships were sunk inside the neutrality zone, the matter assumes a graver aspect.

Plane Attacks Belgian Ship

OSTEND, Belgium, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The 731-ton Belgian steamer Yvonne was reported tonight to have been attacked near the English coast on December 5 by a German plane which dropped bombs but failed to hit the little ship. There was no damage.

IMPORTANT LAST TAX NOTICE!

December 19th is the LAST DAY for payment of State and County taxes for 1939 without additional cost and interest. The law requires me to issue Fi Fa's after December 19th on all unpaid taxes. As much as I dislike to take this action, I have no alternative but to transfer such Fi Fa's to outside parties upon request. Your cooperation by payment will be appreciated as it will relieve us both of any embarrassment.

RUSSIA EXPELLED FROM THE LEAGUE FOR AGGRESSION

Finland, China, Yugoslavia and Greece Abstain From Balloting Upon Ouster Proposal.

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ JR.
GENEVA, Dec. 14.—(P)—Soviet Russia, which in years past used the League of Nations as a forum for speeches against "aggression" in Spain and Czechoslovakia, was thrown out of that council today for having waged unprovoked war on Finland.

Seven out of the 14 members of the League council voted to expel the U. S. S. R. government after the assembly had condemned the Soviet as an aggressor and had urged all League members to give Finland all possible material help. Four—Finland, China, Yugoslavia and Greece, abstained. Three were absent.

The job was done in a day, after less than a week of political preparation here in Geneva. It was the league's first expulsion of a member.

Tonight a telegram informing Russia of the action was sent to the Kremlin.

Nine of the 39 states present abstained from voting in the assembly on the preliminary resolution marking the Soviet as an aggressor. They were the three Scandinavian countries, Norway, Sweden and Denmark; three Baltic countries, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia; Switzerland, China and Bulgaria.

Stubborn Finns Retain Positions

By LYNN HEINZERLING.

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY ON THE EASTERN KARELIAN FRONT, Dec. 14.—(P)—Several battalions of fierce fighting Finns clung stubbornly today to their positions on the Taipale river near Lake Ladoga in the face of heavy artillery fire.

For more than a week they have been holding out against the Russians, writing a new chapter of Finland's struggle for independence.

Today I stood in a first line Finnish trench and watched with a group of Finnish soldiers as Soviet artillery sent shell after shell screaming across the winding stream into a forest about half a mile away.

Dispatches received at Bergen tonight from the Finnish border said two violent explosions were heard at Salmijarvi at 9 o'clock (1 p. m. Atlanta time). It was presumed the Finns had blown up the nickel mines preparatory to abandoning the region.

Hold Their Positions.

When the day was over the Russians had blackened the snow for acres and blasted the woods around—but the Finns still were holding the river positions.

In another southeastern section of their country, the Finns announced officially today they had turned the tide of the Russian invasion, forcing the Red army into retreat and recapturing an extensive area around Tolvajarvi, which is 40 miles west of the eastern frontier and the same distance north of Lake Ladoga.

Acres and acres of stately pine and spruce trees, agleam with winter's frost, have been cut down in this Taipale river area by tons of 3-inch, 6-inch and 8-inch Russian shells.

But since the attack began in this sector December 6 the Finns haven't yielded an inch.

Attempt Nipped.

They had nipped a dozen attempts by the Russians to throw a pontoon bridge across the river.

(A United Press correspondent reported a big Russian offensive intended to turn the flank of Finland's famous Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus has collapsed after eight days of fighting during which the Red army lost thousands of men.

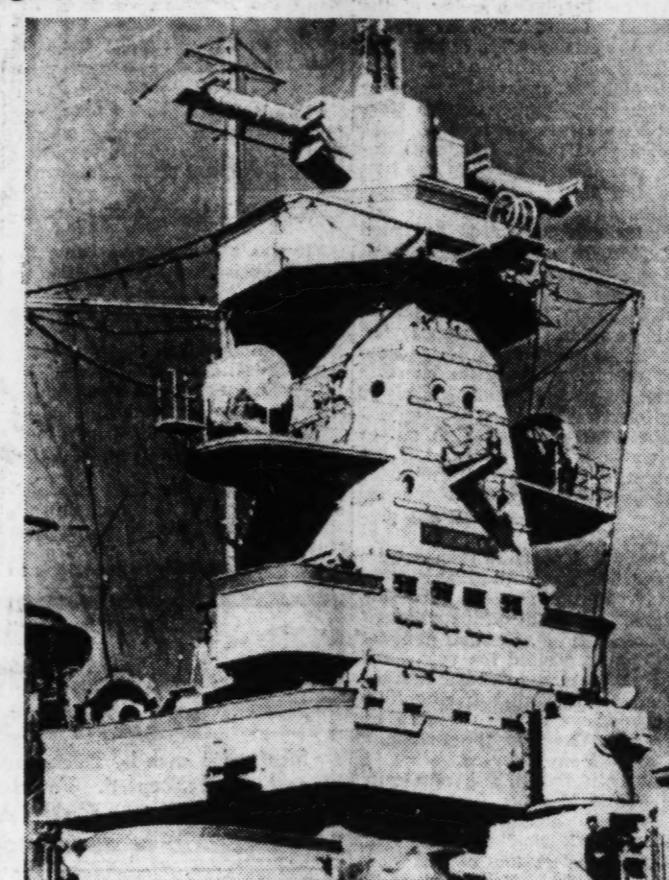

(The Finns, he said, have stopped the Russians dead in their tracks in bitter and furious fighting.

Pride of German Fleet Lies Licking Wounds in South American Port

The German raider, Admiral Graf Spee, which is lying crippled in the harbor at Montevideo, was a veteran of the wars before the present conflict in Europe burst into flame. The Graf Spee made seizures of Spanish Loyalist vessels during the war in Spain.

Although the crippled Admiral Graf Spee, the tower of which is shown above, lay licking her wounds in Montevideo harbor yesterday, Nazi Germany hailed her battle with three British cruisers as a victory and cherished hopes the battleship might yet fight her way to sea.

the Red army to cross the Taipale river, at the eastern end of the isthmus near Lake Ladoga, and strike at the flank of the Mannerheim line.

(The United Press staff correspondent at Svanvik, on the Norwegian-Finnish frontier, reported Russian troops led by whippet tanks tonight had reached the town of Salmajarvi, left a blazing mass of ruins by the torches and dynamite blasting of retreating Finnish troops.

(Finland's entire border in the extreme north was ablaze, the fires burning so closely together that they seemed to be one gigantic conflagration.

Following their "scorched earth" policy, the Finns set fire to Salmajarvi, the nickel town of Kolochoiki, Borisleg, Tellevi, Kwoatti and Kolvjokki.)

Just Spilling Forest.
The road over which I approached the front line trench was blocked in many places by felled trees and riddled by shell holes.

But despite almost constant shelling in this sector by the Russians today, the Finns didn't fire an answering shot.

"We don't shoot unless we have to," one officer said. "The Russians are just spilling our forest with their kind of shooting."

Colonel Toivo Saraparta, whom I encountered on today's tour, said the Russians were using 10 times as many shells as the Finns.

I saw many unexploded Russian shells.

Air Battle Costs Seven Planes

London, Dec. 14.—(P)—The air ministry announced tonight that four German Messerschmidt fighting planes and three British fighters had been shot down in fierce air battles over Helgoland Bight "during the last 24 hours."

The announcement said "considerable forces of the Royal Air Force have been operating over the North Sea in the last 24 hours."

The operations, the air ministry said, included a wide search for "strong enemy fighter forces," air ministry said, adding that except for the three British warplanes shot down over Helgoland, all British formations returned without losses.

One British formation engaged ish bombers and one German Messerschmidt fighter were reported by German authorities to have been shot down in a big air battle near the Friesen island of Spiekerkoog this afternoon.

(Germans said a number of Messerschmidt engaged 12 British bombers when they appeared near Spiekerkoog, which is the second Friesen island from Wilhelmshaven and is southwest of the island of Spiekerkoog.

British authorities disclosed in London the damaging of the British tanker San Alberto, 7,400 tons, "by enemy action" on the southwest coast of England tonight. The extent and details of the damage were not given.

British Break With Reds Seen

London, Dec. 14.—(P)—British condemnation of the Russian invasion of Finland and a pledge to give all possible aid to the Finns was regarded by reliable observers tonight as foreshadowing a definite breakdown of Anglo-Soviet trade relations.

It was considered probable there would be a rupture of other relations as well.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, in a preholiday report to commons, declared Soviet Russia had "outraged the conscience of the whole world."

He said Great Britain had released a number of fighting planes for immediate delivery to Finland and intended to release other material.

Praising the League for condemning Russia, Chamberlain told commons that "Germany alone among the nations even now is abetting by word and deed the Russian aggression."

Soviet Radio Attacks Swedes

MOSCOW, Dec. 14.—(P)—The Moscow radio launched a sharp attack tonight against members of the Swedish Social Democratic party and their organ, "Social Democrat."

"Slaves and hirelings of capitalists and imperialistic interests have dared to abuse the glorious Red army, which with such unselfishness has sent its help to the democratic Finnish republic," said the broadcast. "These so-called socialists have sunk so deep that their newspaper has reached the level of the worst Paris boulevard papers. But the whole world and even the Swedish people will realize the unselfish work of the Soviet Union and her army."

French Chamber Passes Budget

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(P)—The chamber of deputies today gave unanimous approval to the first wartime civil budget which estimated receipts at $7,366,181,12 francs ($1,746,068,018) and expenditures at $7,259,500,375 francs ($1,743,709,008). It now goes to the senate.

The civil budget is part of the ordinary budget which Finance Minister Paul Reynaud has drawn up calling for expenditures of $349,000,000,000 francs ($7,678,000,000), mostly for war expenditures.

In addition there is to be an extraordinary budget for supplementary items. In 1939 this was $27,000,000,000 francs (about $594,000,000).

Western Front Pace Quickens

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(P)—For the third successive day German patrols in increasing numbers struck today at French advance lines in the center of the northern flank of the western front.

A communiqué of the French high command, usually reserved, referred tonight to fighting on the front as "rather sharp engagements between reconnaissance units."

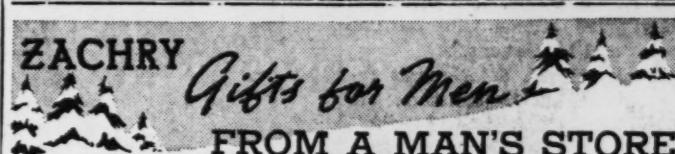

The attacks developed along a 20-mile sector taking in the western foothills of the Vosges mountains and the valley of the Blies river.

This sector is just to the east of the Saar river where sharp fighting was taking place 48 hours ago.

Norway Mines River in Arctic

KIRKENES, Norway, (At the Finnish Frontier), Dec. 14.—(P)—Norwegians mined the frozen Pasvik (Pacific) river as a precautionary defense measure tonight as Russian troops, invading the Finnish nickel mining district just across the frontier river, neared

Gaping Holes Slashed in Raider Graf Spee

Mute but graphic testimony as to the ferocity of the sea battle between the German raider Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers is given in the above photo of the Graf Spee's fire control tower. Circles near the top inclose gaping holes torn by British shells.

Small Finnish detachments remained behind to dynamite the rich nickel mines around Salmijarvi tonight when the Russians are expected to arrive. Salmijarvi is close to the Norwegian border, about 32 miles southwest of the Finnish Arctic port of Liinamaari.

(Some of the mining properties belong to the International Nickel Company of Canada.)

cemetery in seven covered vans, followed by the ship's band and 100 seamen from the crippled German raider.

Need Not Dash.

The Uruguayan decision meant that the Graf Spee, still at anchor in the bay with her 36 dead and 60 wounded on board, need not immediately attempt a suicidal dash through the reinforced British warship patrol outside the harbor.

Shortly after the crippled Nazi floating fortress had surrendered 62 British seamen taken from nine raided merchantmen, British diplomatic authorities indicated that the 10,000-ton British cruiser Cumberland had joined the "death watch" flotilla outside the harbor.

Renown, Ark Royal.

The same sources also said that it was very likely that the great battle cruiser Renown and the aircraft carrier Ark Royal would rush here from South African waters.

The Cumberland mounts eight 8-inch guns and has a speed of 31.5 knots.

Already, the light cruisers Ajax and Achilles, which drove the Graf Spee into this harbor after a day-long battle yesterday, were on watch, along with the crippled British cruiser Exeter.

Reports from the Ajax and Achilles said that they had no dead and only a few wounded. There were unconfirmed reports, however, of some dead aboard the Exeter.

15-Inch Guns.

The Renown, last reported off Capetown with the Ark Royal for other German pocket battleship raiders, has six 15-inch guns.

The seamen surrendered today by the Graf Spee had huddled together in the brig of the pocket battleship while yesterday's battle raged for hours above their heads.

Under the direction of British legation officials, a tugboat pulled alongside the pocket battleship and the seamen emerged from their prison.

Clamber Happily.

They clambered happily into the tug for the trip ashore.

Headed by five merchant captains, the men mounted the same gangplank over which Captain Hans Langsdorff, of the Graf Spee, a half hour earlier had led half dozen smartly clad Nazi officers on his way to make a formal call in port.

The imprisoned captains were

Close Inspection.

A close inspection today of the crippled warship revealed graphically the effectiveness of the British guns.

Three holes, apparently made by 6-inch shells, gaped on the starboard waterline, forward. A huge hole, a yard and a half in diameter, was blasted through the hull into the ship's sleeping quarters on the port side, forward.

Plates bent outwards indicated the effect of what must have been a severe explosion within the ship.

Another gap, large enough for several men to enter together, could be seen in the fighting tower. The heavy shell apparently came over the stern during the chase.

The six-inch portside gun tower was overturned.

The Graf Spee lay high out of the water, possibly confirming the contention of the German minister that she was forced to run for shelter because her fuel was giving out.

Docks and portside streets were crowded all day with great crowds, gazing at the pocket battleship swinging at its distant anchorage.

Otto Langman, German minister to Uruguay, visited the vessel and upon his return to shore charged the crewmen were suffering from lung and eye injuries caused by gas shells fired by the British.

Deny Charges.

But both the British admiralty and Prime Minister Chamberlain, in London, denied as "entirely without foundation" these charges.

Ringside spectators of the war's first real sea battle meanwhile reached the safety of Montevideo aboard the 9,975-ton French merchant ship Formose and told graphic accounts of the spectacular fight deep in the American neutrality zone.

The passengers spent all yesterday wearing lifebelts and watching the encounter from the decks of the Formose, intended prey of the Admiral Graf Spee.

Many of them were incoherent as they tried to piece together the taut moments they spent while their skipper, Captain Jacques Buron, maneuvered his vessel behind a heavy smokescreen laid down by the Ajax.

The Formose was proceeding along the Brazilian coast of Rio Grande do Sul yesterday, they related, when they sighted the fleet Nazi raider.

Full Speed.

The Formose headed full speed for Uruguayan territorial waters. The merchantman wallowed along at her top speed of 12 knots while the German warship quickly closed in," said one calmer passenger.

"It was a race against time for British cruisers were known to be near by.

"Then the Ajax, first of the British cruisers to join the battle, came into sight and began chasing the Admiral Graf Spee.

"The Ajax sent out a call to the Achilles and the Exeter.

"The Achilles raced to the scene, speeding past the Ajax and opening fire.

"Next came the Exeter, which got the worst of the Nazi vessel's fight against the three British ships.

"The Admiral Graf Spee took to

May Leave in Week.

"(The damaged Graf Spee "probably will leave Montevideo within a week" after burying its 36 dead and obtaining medical treatment for its 60 wounded, sources close to the German legation said tonight, according to the United Press.

Germany Terms

Graf Spee Victor

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Nazi Germany hailed the Admiral Graf Spee tonight as the heroic victor in the war's first great naval battle and cherished hopes the crippled pocket-battleship might yet fight her way to sea from her Montevideo refuge.

"Authorized sources also denied that the Graf Spee would be interned indefinitely in Montevideo.

German authorities said tonight they were so firmly convinced that the British had used mustard gas in their battle with the pocket battleship Admiral Graf

Spee that they will invite a neutral commission to substantiate the German charges.

German Liner Leaves Mexico

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Dec. 14. (P)—The German liner Columbus, fueled and provisioned for a 50-day voyage, slipped out to sea to day apparently attempting to dodge British warships on the high seas and run the Allied blockade to Germany.

A rich war prize if captured at sea, the 32,581-ton liner had been in Vera Cruz since September 4, the day after Britain declared war.

There was talk that the vessel might be used to provision German submarines or other craft at sea. The Columbus had taken on more than 20,000 barrels of fuel oil in the past week.

A few hours in advance of the Columbus another German vessel, the 4,353-ton freighter Arauca, cleared Vera Cruz with a cargo of nitrates, crude oil, fiber and other commodities consigned to New Orleans.

White's Letters to Wife Make Interesting Column

(W. L. White has left Berlin for Helsinki by way of Sweden. Several additional articles from Germany are to follow, but have been delayed somewhat due to restrictions imposed on all mail, personal and otherwise. Excerpts from Mr. White's letters to Mrs. White, which follow, give such a clear picture of the conditions under which foreign observers are working, that they have been made the basis for today's column.)

BERLIN (By Mail).—There is a good deal of red tape getting permission to cable; they've finally promised it definitely for tomorrow, so I couldn't file anything on the Munich affair, and I had a pretty good story, too. I have not heard a single solitary word from America since I left. Have no idea what you or my family or the newspapers are doing, or if my stuff is getting through.

Passed by Censor.

It is absolutely forbidden here for foreigners to wire out any kind of a message, which is the reason I haven't been able to let you know I was finally in Germany, although I've been here a week.

I am staying here at the Bristol hotel, but expect to move to the Continental where the correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor has a radio, and he's going to Holland for a week or so.

It's an American radio, they're the only ones that will get foreign stations. The local ones have the names of all the foreign stations printed on the dial, but for some very curious reason all you get are stations inside this country. But this old battered wreck of a Philco gets Bound Brook every night. . . .

BERLIN, Nov. 25 (By Mail).—Today I received my first word from America since I sailed. Your two cables forwarded from Rome. (Note: These were cables filed November 1). Thank God you are still alive.

Plenty of Tension.

There is about as much tension here now as on a hot Sunday afternoon in Kansas. (Note: Mr. White's allusion here is obviously not an off-hand one. A native Kansan, he had spent many of those hot Sunday afternoons which try the souls and nerves of men waiting to see whether the gathering storm will pass, or break in all its fury, sweeping away a life's work in an afternoon.)

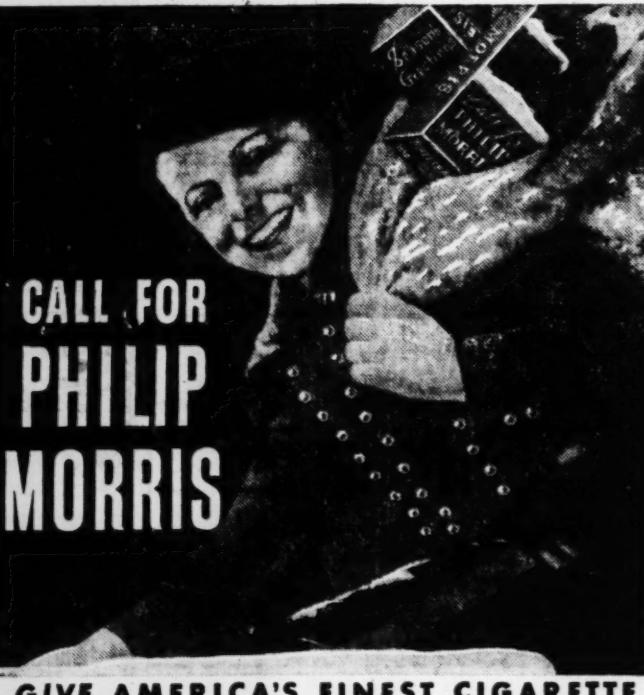

The trouble with the Clipper service is that the British are said to be taking our mailbags off the ship at Bermuda, holding it a week while they read everything, and putting it back on the next Clipper a week later. I am for democracy, but I wish our State Department would raise a little hell about this. (Note: Mrs. White comments that it appears doubtful that the British are holding any of the mail, and certainly have not opened any of the mail received thus far.)

Permitted to Send Cables.

COLD WAVE MOVES TO THE NORTHEAST

Southeast Is Promised Warmer Temperature Today.

By The Associated Press. A swift northeastward movement of the nation's current cold wave brought snow and subfreezing weather to New England last night and a promise of warmer temperature to the southeast.

Weather bureau forecasters said the latest weather trend might moderate somewhat freezing temperature predicted earlier for parts of northern and central Florida.

Two inches of snow covered most of New England and a light fall occurred during the night in Pennsylvania and in the mountains of West Virginia.

Early in the night the mercury had fallen to three degrees above zero at Muskoka, Ontario, just north of Buffalo, N. Y.; to 10 degrees at Burlington, Vt.; 12 at Bangor, Maine; 19 at Albany, N. Y., and Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Boston had a 27-degree reading and Camden, N. J., 33.

A 36-mile-an-hour wind was blowing at Block Island, R. I. Across the continent the wind reached 40 miles an hour at Victoria, British Columbia, just north of Seattle.

Rain fell in Washington state, Oregon and western Montana. Barren the snow in the east, fair weather prevailed generally over the rest of the country.

Temperature was near normal west of the Mississippi river.

RADIO 'HAM' HEARD IN 52 COUNTRIES

Youth, 15, Has Been Answered by 1,600 Stations in Foreign Lands.

Hugh T. Anderson, 15-year-old "ham," of Greenville, S. C., has sent radio code signals that have been heard and answered by 1,600 stations in 52 foreign countries and the United States.

He's one of the youngest amateur radio operators in the nation. Yet, he's a veteran with an enviable record.

Four years ago he began studying the international radio code with his brother, Burton. Last September he received his license to operate after passing a Federal Communications Commission examination.

600 Postcards Mailed.

Ten months later he was on the air, his freckled, steady hand pounding out messages. He has mailed 600 postcards to verify air contacts and has received 400 replies. These include messages from Cape Verde Island, Guam, Howland Island, Tasmania, Bahrain Island in the Persian Gulf and Nigeria. He also has contacted Norway, Finland and Japan.

His communications with Italy, Salvador, Yugoslavia and the Republic of Panama have been of particular interest, for laws there prohibit operation of amateur stations and force operators to transmit secretly.

Operators there always requested that no cards be sent, for they feared punishment if detected.

Leader Attacks F. D. R. Order in N. Y. Speech.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, today said the National Grange opposed an order by President Roosevelt abolishing the independent status of the Farm Credit Administration.

Taber, here to attend the annual convention of the New York State Grange, said: "Farmers ask the opportunity to obtain credit meeting their needs on the same terms that are made available to business and finance."

"Sound co-operative credit must be free from either political interference on the one hand or production control programs on the other."

WATCHMAN SEES MEN BURN SCHOOL HOUSE

COLUMBIANA, Ala., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Fire that a watchman said was set by four white men who held him at gun point today destroyed the $53,000 Shelby County High school building, just completed as a PWA project and to have been occupied after the Christmas holidays.

Sheriff W. B. White said the watchman, a negro, reported the men appeared early this morning, pointed a pistol at him, poured gasoline on a floor, touched a match to the fuel, and fled.

Undisturbed by a train accident en route, Laura Hope Crews, the Aunt Pittypat of "Gone With the Wind," arrived here yesterday to join fellow members of the cast for the picture's world premiere tonight.

TRAIN DERAILMENT DELAYS 'PITTY PAT'

Laura Hope Crews Says She Spurned Plane in Fear of Trouble.

A train wreck in which she was badly shaken up but not injured provided more excitement than she had expected yesterday for Laura Hope Crews, "Aunt Pitty Pat," who finally arrived in Atlanta after being delayed for more than an hour by a derailment near Cartersville.

"I'm still jittery," she said as she attempted to calm herself before going to Candler field to meet the last of the stars arriving here. "In all my traveling this was my first train wreck."

Only One Was Injured.

The star of many character roles said she was in her compartment when the wreck occurred about 8 o'clock yesterday morning as the train steamed toward Atlanta. She said the dinner and observation car overturned but that only one woman was injured. The passengers were moved into other cars and the train continued to Atlanta.

"Before I left they tried to get me to take a plane, but I said I wouldn't for the world because we might have a wreck," she said. "Now you see what happened."

Miss Crews, who looks much younger than most of the roles she plays, said she could hardly wait for the premiere. She said she had not seen the picture and was anxious to know just how well it did.

Adored the Part.

"When you are making a picture, you know what you are trying to do, but the cameras tell you what you are doing," she explained. "If I can just interpret the Aunt Pitty Pat Miss Mitchell created in her book, I'll be satisfied. I just adored the part."

While she was making her trip to Atlanta, Miss Crews said she remarked to a train porter that she was coming south for the world premiere of "Gone With the Wind." The porter's reply, she said, was this:

"Lady, dat ain't no picture dat's an epoch."

NEGRO BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO NEAR RAYLE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
WASHINGTON, Ga., Dec. 14.—Jesse Morris, 9-year-old negro, was killed yesterday when, frightened by a stray dog, he darted into the path of an automobile driven by Thorton Lee Worthen, of Athens, state patrolmen reported.

The accident occurred on the highway near Rayle.

IL DUCE REASSURED ON BORDER DEFENSES

ROME, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, army chief of staff, told Premier Mussolini today that Italy's defenses along the French frontier were satisfactory. Graziani has just completed a general survey of all Italian border defenses.

NOTABLES SEE GALA 60'S REVIVED AT SPARKLING BALL

CELEBRITIES HEAR HAUNTING STRAINS OF DIXIE MELODIES

Major Clark Howell Introduces Famed Dignitaries Thousands Have Come Here To Glimpse.

By WILLARD COPE.

The south of legend and history issued from the past gloriously last night as the fixed program for the "Gone With the Wind" ball was presented before the distinguished company of celebrities from every section of the country and every field of endeavor.

In the colorful setting of flags, bunting, Confederate colors predominating, interspersed with smilax and laurel, the spectators saw the stage presentation offered with great spirit, were moved by the revival of old southern melodies and were thrilled as the spotlight leapt from point to point among the boxes as Major Clark Howell, master of ceremonies, introduced briefly the personages whom thousands of those present had come chiefly to see.

Leide's Music.

The crowd entered, beginning at 8 o'clock, to the music of Enrico Leide and his orchestra. Leide had arranged special and appealing medleys of familiar songs, "Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," graceful waltz music and spirited war songs, climaxing appropriately at one point with "Dixie."

This music gave a background of sound, and set an atmosphere, in which the visitors surveyed the auditorium interior and gasped with pleasure at the setting in Taft hall, which represented the bazaar of "Gone With the Wind" which furnished the reason for the original ball.

The program proper began at 8:30 o'clock with the introduction by Mrs. W. Colquitt Carter, president of the Junior League, of Major Howell. There was a pleasant exchange of compliments between Mrs. Carter and Major Howell, in the course of which he paid tribute to the achievements of the Junior League and its devotion to civic projects which far outweighs, he declared, any consideration of social prestige with which the League may have been concerned.

Costume of Dr. Meade.

He appeared in the costume of "Dr. Meade," from the book, and enacted the same role which that now famed physician had performed in the book.

Following this exchange, before a lowered curtain, there was an interesting and eye-filling interlude during which 50 members of the Junior League, each in lovely costume of the "Gone With the Wind" period, entered in order from the stage and took their places in seats provided on either side of the stage.

As this was concluded, the master-of-ceremonies plunged into the pleasant duty of introducing local celebrities.

He paid tribute to Mayor Hartsfield and Governor Rivers and assured his hearers they would be along presently. His prediction proved correct, for the two officials arrived with visiting Governors Burnet Maybank, of South Carolina; Frank M. Dixon, of Alabama; Prentiss Cooper, of Tennessee; and Fred Cone, of Florida.

Then Major Howell, referring to former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, amid applause, said "Governor Cox has just shown in, a very substantial way the faith he has in the future of Atlanta and this section."

Picturesque Phase.

One of the most picturesque and moving phases of the program followed—the singing of spirituals by the Ebenezer Baptist Church choir under the direction of L. B. Byron. There was a most melodic blending of guitars and numbing voices, and then the chorus swung into "Plenty of Room," a fervent hymn. There followed "I Want to Walk With Jesus" and "Come Along, Children, and Be Baited."

The singing was upon the grounds of an old plantation home, with great columns, bathed in moonlight, and it was an extremely effective setting. Magnolias, boxwood and wisteria were present in profusion, giving great reality to the scene. Upon the portico walked a few folk in old-fashioned costumes while the singing was in progress, as if it were a scene lifted intact from slavery times.

Polka Scene.

The long-anticipated polka scene, directed by Martha Ridley and Gregory S. S. was presented at this juncture by 12 Junior Leagues and their partners. Special rehearsals had been going forward since the ball was first projected, and the result was a graceful display of unity in motion which drew spontaneous applause. There was a specialty number of artistic merit by Miss Ridley and Stevens.

Major Howell led the applause after a tribute to Miss Margaret Mitchell, who did not attend so she could conserve her strength for the premiere tonight. He stressed throughout the valuable contribution of her work to spread a better understanding among all the sections of the country.

For all of this part of the program Leide and his orchestra had provided the music, and the precision and grace of the dances in following the music again evoked applause. The numbers were freely declared unusually beautiful and pleasing.

Celebrities Introduced.

At this point, Major Howell ended, and dancing continued with Kyser's orchestra until 2 o'clock this morning.

No Snubs for 'Rhett Butler' at This Ball ----- 'Doctor Meade' Makes the Introductions

This was the moment for which the brilliant assembly, gathered for the "Gone With the Wind" ball last night in the City auditorium, had awaited so breathlessly. It was the moment when Clark Gable, the "Rhett Butler" of the film, was introduced by Major Clark Howell, master of ceremonies, and rose in his box to receive the plaudits of the crowd.

Ann Rutherford Takes Time To Remember the Old Vets

'Careen' Slips Away From Festival Gaiety To Visit Soldiers' Home; Ever-Gallant Gentlemen Receive Her as Lee, Jackson, Forrest and Morgan Look On.

Scarlett O'Hara's pretty little sister, Caren, paid a visit yesterday to the Confederate soldiers who tried to defend Tara hall.

She rewarded them with kisses. She brought a lighting their fading old eyes and quickening hearts that have been beating since before the Battle of Bull Run.

Lovely Ann Rutherford, 19-year-old Hollywood star, stole away from all the gay "Gone With the Wind" celebrations and drove out to the Confederate soldiers' home where live six old men, between 90 and 95 years of age.

General J. R. Jones, 95, who campaigned with the army of Virginia, was there to meet her. He had been there for half an hour or more, the superintendent said, refusing to allow anyone else to do the honors.

He swung open the big door himself, leaned a bit on his cane from the effort, and said:

"My, you're a pretty child aren't you?"

Meet the Other 'Boys.'

Miss Rutherford patted his hand and then held him close in her arms, snuggling his head deep into the fur of her fox jacket, and bruising the orchids of her corsage with the medals on his coat.

The other boys are back in their rooms," the general said. "Would you let me take you back to see them?"

General Jones took her arm and down the big hall they went, as the pictures of Lee and Jackson down from their big gilt frames.

"I could go a little faster," the general piped as they walked along, "if I hadn't broken my danged leg a few months ago. Figure if I hadn't busted it I might of gone to that ball tonight and tried myself a dance."

"So Red the Rose."

The commandant of the Georgia veterans, M. Y. Griggs, 92, was too weak to rise from his chair when Miss Rutherford went into his room. An oxygen tank stood by his bed. But when the gracious girl leaned over to pat his shoulders, he laid a little corsage in her hands. It was of roses and tied with the colors of the Confederacy.

In a voice so low it scarcely could be heard Commandant Griggs told how sorry he was that he wasn't going to see the picture.

"I read the book plumb through," he said, "and had set my hopes on seeing it. Got my uniform all ready. It's over there in the closet spick and span. But my heart got to acting up."

Lists of Bygone Days.

For more than an hour Miss Rutherford sat in the room with the old men, listening to each one's stories of his adventures in the War Between the States. She straightened a pillow here, admiring a picture there, and in her wake left some very happy old men in southern gray.

NBC Broadcast.

In the succeeding interval there was an NBC broadcast of the festivities, during which Mrs. Carter, Governor Rivers and Mayor Hartsfield were introduced to a nationwide audience. Kyser acted as master of ceremonies for this phase of the program, arranged by Lambdin Kyser.

Miss Palmer appeared in the befitting green-sprigged muslin dress worn by Scarlett in one of the principal scenes of the film. Her appearance was greeted with much applause as she and Sommers led the preliminary to the dance.

As the dance proceeded there was the judging of costumes by the committee consisting of Miss Kyser, Miss Elizabeth Arden, John Hay Whitney, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Howard Dietz. The selections were announced at midnight, and prizes were distributed for the most outstanding masculine and feminine costume, most interestingly costumed couple, most authentic old costume and best copy of a dress of the period.

Here the formal program ended, and dancing continued with Kyser's orchestra until 2 o'clock this morning.

MUSICIAN, ACTRESS ATTEND LUNCHEON

Junior Chamber Fetes Ruth erford, Kyser.

Miss Ann Rutherford and Kay Kyser ate lunch yesterday afternoon with the Junior Chamber of Commerce and gave 350 members a glimpse of their personalities which have made them famous in motion pictures and radio.

Miss Rutherford was interviewed by President Vernon Brown.

Kay Kyser, who furnished the music last night for the Junior League ball, unanimously was elected an honorary member of the Jay-Cee organization. He was accompanied by his vocalist, Miss Virginia Sims.

"My most prized possession," Kyser said, "is a key given me by Miss Myrick, Miss Elizabeth Arden, John Hay Whitney, Wilbur G. Kurtz and Howard Dietz. The selections were announced at midnight, and prizes were distributed for the most outstanding masculine and feminine costume, most interestingly costumed couple, most authentic old costume and best copy of a dress of the period."

Here the formal program ended, and dancing continued with Kyser's orchestra until 2 o'clock this morning.

Dublin, Eire, has issued an appeal to its citizens to co-operate in carrying out air raid precautions.

Vivien Leigh, Beautifully Gowned and Cloaked in Ermine, Fails To Dance as Studio Fears Souvenir Hunters Might Damage Her Clothes.

By LEE ROGERS

"Scarlett," a la 1939, made the good Atlantans at the Junior League ball gasp last night, just as Peggy Mitchell's original "Scarlett" had done at the charity bazaar back in '64.

Only the cause was slightly different.

It was a beautiful, vivacious Vivien Leigh dressed in a stunning original creation who brought the "oohs" and "ahs" from the women and made the men folk stare last night. She was a "Scarlett" who broke no Emily Post rules, but who completely captivated an Atlanta which wished to be critical but couldn't.

True, Miss Leigh allowed herself to be restrained—something the 1864 "Scarlett" refused to do when she danced with the disreputable "Rhett Butler" at the charity bazaar while she was supposed to be in deep mourning for one of her several husbands.

The modern "Scarlett" was prevented from dancing by her studio—and only because the film officials were afraid some souvenir hunter might attempt to collect a prize by tearing at the star's dress. She was every bit an English lady when she stood up to receive the homage of "her" Atlanta after an introduction by Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution.

"She's beautiful." "She's really 'Scarlett'." Those were typical exclamations.

Miss Leigh, at all times dignified and restrained—quite unlike the "Scarlett" of the book—took everything in, missing none of

"Here I Come."

"And now, Miss Olivia de Havilland," intoned Major Howell, the master of ceremonies. The flickering spot danced back to box G.

There sat Vivian Leigh.

Laurence Olivier looked embarrassed. Olivia wasn't there, but the audience gave her a big hand anyway.

"Clear the way," shouted Police Captain Jack Malcolm, from the back of the auditorium.

"Here I come," said Olivia.

The audience caught on and rose to their feet, applauding as Malcolm handed her over the box railing to Olivier, who sat down, presumably gently.

She had to take a couple of encores after that.

Another scene stealer was Carole Lombard, but it wasn't her fault. She followed her husband here, and if the public wanted more than the others, what could a good actress do?

So graciously acceding to public demand, she bowed to the left and bowed to the right. She threw kisses indiscriminately to the arena, the dress circle, the boxes and the balcony.

PREMIERE CLIMAXES HISTORY-MAKING FESTIVAL TONIGHT

NEW GENERATION TO LEARN OF OLD FROM EPIC FILM

Loew's Grand Again Becomes Mecca of Southern Society as City Passes Judgment on Movie.

By LEE ROGERS.

A new generation of Atlantans, who knew the Gay Twenties and the Great Depression, impatiently are awaiting tonight that they may experience the heart throbs and gaiety of Grandmother's Atlanta. For tonight is the night of the world premiere of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," the story of the old south told in three hours and 40 minutes of technicolor film.

For the better part of three months, Atlanta has been preparing for tonight. During the last week, the preparations have been approaching a mighty crescendo—the first public exhibition of the completed film.

The screen stars who brought the characters to life are here. The city has dressed itself as best it could in the costumes of the Sixties. Business has almost reached a standstill. A state holiday has been declared today.

Mecca of Society.

And the Loew's Grand theater once again becomes the mecca of southern society—just as it was in the days when known as DeGiv's Opera house it brought out the ladies and the gentlemen in their finery to witness personal performances by the greatest stage stars of the day.

The theater has been completely sold out for the opening performance. All 2,031 seats have been sold at $10 per throw—that is all but those kept back for the M. G. M. stars and officials—and the Atlanta Community Fund is assured of $10,000 from the proceeds of the ticket sale.

A motion picture conception of Twelve Oaks has been erected in front of the theater, with four massive white columns arising 50 feet into the air. It's been constructed in typical, authentic Georgian style and above the house is a 16 foot by 23 foot cameo of Rhett Butler and Scarlett in a gold frame.

Celebrity Square.

The square in front of the theater has been renamed for the night "celebrity square." It will be closed to all traffic at 6 o'clock tonight. Around 6:30 the early arrivals will begin coming for the premiere. They will enter via Carnegie way and must show their tickets to policemen before they will be admitted to the square. After the cars are unloaded at the theater entrance, the vehicles will be moved down Pryor street. No ticket holders will be permitted to enter after 8 o'clock. Beginning at 8, the stars will arrive, with Clark Gable's entrance being the grand finale of the pre-premiere program.

Celebrity square will be lighted with spot and flood lights, both stationary and roving. M.-G.-M. officials say it will be the greatest wattage of lights ever used in lighting a theater front for a film premiere.

Atlanta's Julian Boehm will be at the microphone at the entrance of the theater to introduce the celebrities as they arrive and to ask them to tell the radio audience "I'm so happy to be here." Both NBC and CBS are scheduled to broadcast the ceremonies.

The picture will begin about 8:30 o'clock. Half way through there is a 20-minute intermission. After the completed film, Clark Gable, who plays "Rhett"; Vivien Leigh, "Scarlett"; Olivia de Havilland, "Melanie"; Evelyn Keyes, "Suellen"; Ann Rutherford, "Carreen"; Ona Munson, "Belle Watling"; Laura Hope Crews, "Aunt Pitty"; and various of the film officials will be introduced from their seats.

To Introduce Mayor.

After the picture, Boehm will introduce the mayor and he in turn will present the stars.

Before the picture begins, as many people as can be safely admitted into celebrity square, will be permitted to do so, that they may watch the arrival of the celebrities.

Emory University honor students will serve as ushers and representatives of the Wesleyan College alumnae society will act as official premiere hostesses.

On a platform in front the theater, the Big Bethel choir will sing negro spirituals as the celebrities and premiere crowd assemble.

The audience, both Atlantans and the visiting governors and social elites, is already sold on the success of the picture. All Atlanta regards it as being its own—but they'll be critical of any flaws which might be evident and they'll be looking for "you alls" in the singular. That's what has the stars all nervous. But they think they have a great picture, and they hope Atlanta will like it.

This time tomorrow morning, Atlanta will have given them its answer.

MRS. HENRY TOPPING GIVES BIRTH TO GIRL

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry J. Topping Jr., the former Gloria Baker, half-sister of George and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, gave birth to a daughter today at Doctors hospital.

The child, weighing seven and a half pounds, will be named Sandra Emerson Topping.

The Toppings were married at the home of Mrs. Topping's mother, Mrs. Margaret Emerson, in Palm Beach, Fla., December 19, 1938.

Where Stars Will Be Seated At Premiere

Lucky Atlantans who hold premiere tickets to "Gone With the Wind" tonight will find the stars who enact the film in the following center orchestra seats:

Clark Gable, E-105; Vivien Leigh, D-104; Eliza Reth, C-103; Ann Rutherford, C-107; Laura Hope Crews, C-109; Evelyn Keyes, C-111; Ona Munson, C-112; Olivia de Havilland, E-112.

Carole Lombard, S-107; Director Victor Fleming, E-108; Producer David O. Selznick, D-101; Mrs. Selznick, D-102; Mrs. L. B. Mayer, D-106; Claudette Colbert, D-107; W. R. Rodgers, D-110 and D-111; Daniel O'Shea, C-104, 105; Howard Strickling, C-108; Laurence Olivier, G-107. Governor Rivers and Mrs. Rivers will have seats D-103 and 105, and Mayor Hartsfield and his daughter will have seats E-104 and 106.

This time tomorrow morning, Atlanta will have given them its answer.

MRS. HENRY TOPPING GIVES BIRTH TO GIRL

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry J. Topping Jr., the former Gloria Baker, half-sister of George and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, gave birth to a daughter today at Doctors hospital.

The child, weighing seven and a half pounds, will be named Sandra Emerson Topping.

Gown Especially Created for Scarlett's Premiere Appearance Tonight

Here, at long last, Atlantans get a glimpse of the striking gown Vivien Leigh, the Scarlett O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind," will wear tonight at the production's world premiere. Created for the occasion by Walter Plunkett, who designed all costumes for the film, the gown is of gold lame, draped in oriental fashion, with harem hem line and draped girdle accenting the small waist. Girdle and the short, square sleeves are quilted in rose pattern and studded with gold sequins.

Worn with the gown is jewelry of topaz and diamonds set in gold. Necklace and bracelet are of leaf and acorn design.

A brief appeal from the mayor, "Let's be nice to these folks—they're our guests," had almost immediate effect.

The crowd was moved back a little, and soon the door of the plane was opened.

A moment more and Gable, Miss Lombard and Mrs. Louis B. Mayer, another motion picture passenger aboard, were coming down the runway.

The Gable and Lombard smiles, easy, natural and seemingly sincere, somehow eased the tension. Photographic light bulbs flashed.

The crowd slowly retreated before the mayor, the governor in silk topper, the party of guests and the strivings but patient police.

Almost before the crowd knew it, the two Gables were bundled into their car, with the mayor at Miss Lombard's left and the governor in front. Flowers had appeared, of course.

It appeared as Times Square on election night. As far as the eye could reach there were people pressed against each other. So great was the pressure that only the narrowest of lanes remained for the advancing line of bedecked automobiles.

The procession was off. Gable's car was eighth in line, being preceded by those of other notables. Immediately behind rode a full automobile of state troopers and two cars to the rear, more state troopers. He was the special object of solicitude, and when the procession slowed at all, the troopers were off the running board of their machines and advancing to meet any emergency.

COLBERT ARRIVES, RIDES IN PARADE

Actress Is 'Thrilled' With Her First Trip South.

Arriving in Atlanta by train only a few minutes before she was to take part in the parade of stars through downtown Atlanta, Claudette Colbert, one of moviedom's biggest names, expressed joy yesterday at being able to "look in" on Atlanta's "Gone With the Wind" celebration.

As all traffic, from all sections, heads into the Carnegie way both-bound, traffic will be open to two-way traffic, so that cars from both the north and south sections of town may e' route along it to Carnegie way. Turning into Carnegie way, it will converge to Peachtree street at the theater.

Northbound traffic also may travel Cone street, making a right turn into Carnegie way. This route, however, is not recommended by traffic officials because of the congestion at the Carnegie way junction.

GABLE'S ARRIVAL LAUNCHES ATLANTA'S GREATEST FESTIVAL

Peak moment in preliminaries to Atlanta's great "Gone With the Wind" festival was reached yesterday when Clark

Rivers, who officially greeted them, and E. B. Coleman, chief of "Gone With the Wind" premiere arrangements for M.-G.-M.

The fever that is "Gone With the Wind" soared late yesterday and sent Atlantans into a frenzy of spirit never before witnessed here, as moviedom's great, whom many had never seen before save on the silver screen, paraded before their very eyes.

All along the Whitehall-Peachtree line of the parade, thousands stormed forward for a glimpse of the notables. Hard-pressed

CITY'S OWN 'SCARLETT' LEADS GRAND MARCH AT BALL

Miss Margaret Palmer Captivates Auditorium Crowd as She Leads March Wearing Superb Gown Which 'Scarlett' Wore at 'Twelve Oaks.'

By CARY WILMER.

She stepped onto the floor of the auditorium in all her startling beauty, leading the grand march on the arm of Harry Sommers. She wore the same green-sprigged mousseine de soie gown which 'Scarlett' wore at Twelve Oaks the afternoon she heard that Ashley was going to marry Melanie.

She was "Atlanta's Scarlett," and as lovely a "Scarlett" as ever graced the halls of Tara. Her name is Margaret Palmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Palmer. And she was chosen from the ranks of the unmarried Junior Leaguers and the 1929-40 Debutee Club as most closely resembling Vivien Leigh, the English actress who brought Margaret Mitchell's famous character to life.

Sponsored by Constitution. After The Constitution, through a board of judges, selected her to wear one of the most dazzling dress creations used during the filming of "Gone With the Wind," Miss Palmer was so close to type that it was decided she should lead the grand march last night.

The judges were Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, Attorney General Ellis Arnall and Wilbur Kurtz Jr.

Miss Palmer is dark-haired, fair skinned, vivacious. When the big crowd saw her in "Scarlett's" $3,000 gown, there was an audible gasp of approbation and surprise as her role of Scarlett at the ball had been carefully guarded.

Life for her has been just a little hectic—gloriously hectic—since it was decided that she was to fill a role which, for last night, at least, was just as important as the one played in the film by Miss Leigh. But no other Cinderella come-to-life ever had a greater thrill out of a perfect whirl of never-to-be-forgotten events.

Secret Had to Be Abandoned.

It first was planned that she was not to be told of the results of the competition until Tuesday morning, but this idea had to be hurriedly abandoned. There were fittings to be arranged, appointments with hair dressers and beauty parlors, interviews, photographers, even news reels.

It just couldn't be done between Tuesday and last night and so for the past week Miss Palmer has been leading the life of an "un-discovered" celebrity.

"It's just been wonderful," was

Band Leader Flies South To Supply Music for Ball.

With a cheerful smile and a familiar "How y'all?" Kay Kyser, nationally known orchestra leader, arrived in Atlanta at noon yesterday.

Kyser, whose interpretations of modern rhythm have made him one of the biggest drawing cards in the dance band business, came here with his organization to play for the dance program of the Junior League "Gone With the Wind" ball.

The "professor" and his boys and girls were met by a crowd of enthusiastic "students" of his "musical college"—(in other words, swing addicts)—and an official welcoming party.

Doing honors in greeting Kyser on behalf of the city were Mayor Hartsfield, Mike Benton, grand marshal of the historic "Gone With the Wind" celebration; Faber Bollinger, the massive maestro of the Tourist and Convention Bureau, who was engaged in brookwood in stovepipe hat and flowing Ascot ball.

Decorations Delight.

But it was in the auditorium itself that the decorations for the "Gone With the Wind" ball brought forth from spectators a mighty chorus of praise.

For here, in a panorama of green and red and blue, was the spirit of the old South, an atmosphere symbolic of the life and times which formed the background for the events so stirringly recorded in Miss Mitchell's great novel.

The eye traveled at once to the stage—and was held by the scene there. Phil Shutz, the prominent Atlanta architect, had labored well. On the stage was a reproduction of the front of an old plantation home, a house of the bygone years.

It was not "Tara" or "Twelve Oaks" of the book. It was an original design, inspiration for which came from famous Mimosa Hall at Roswell and "Greenwood," the Harry Payne Whitney house at Thomasville.

Four graceful Ionic columns rose 18 feet into the air, holding up, like beautiful hands, the triangle of the pediment, itself made lovely by the design of a carved magnolia in the center.

From base to top, the house measured 31 feet. Across, it stretched for 40 feet.

Moonlit Scene.

The scene was a moonlight night. Inside the house, through the curtains, lights shone, as though a festive occasion were going on. Two lamps in the green-shuttered windows of the first floor.

A brass knocker, also of the period, was visible on the friendly, hospitable door.

Outside, floodlights played on flags of the Confederacy, the bunting, the great seal of the city and the huge American flag draped on the front of the auditorium building.

Inside, in the foyer leading to the auditorium, the view was made still more colorful by additional flags of the Lost Cause and a lighted picture of a scene from the famous Cyclorama painting.

In Taft Hall, to the right of the foyer, there was recreation that stirring "Bazaar" scene from Margaret Mitchell's novel, that dramatic incident where the devil-may-care Scarlett danced with Rhett Butler.

into the past. There were six booths, and plenty of atmospheric touches—cannon balls, mustache cups, old battle flags, china cuspids, even a couple of old carpet bags, signs bearing such inscriptions as "Buy a Hanky—Beat a Yankee," "Down With Yankees," "Long Live the Confederacy."

Red and blue bunting draped gracefully from the railing. Pine trees between the booths carried out the sylvan idea.

As for the booths themselves, there was—in the case of the ice-cream booth and the soft-drink booth—a clever blending of the past and the present.

Authentic Touch.

The soft-drink booth, in a red and white color scheme, with golden spearheads at the top, occupied one wall. This was longer than authentic with the book, but nine dispensers in Confederate uniforms furnished the authentic touch.

Not since the lush days of Metropolitan Opera in Atlanta when Ponson, Caruso, Chaliapin and Gigli sent Terrace residents into ecstasy swoons has the brigade had such a day.

Driven from the comfortable rockers on the hotel's Pecan tree terrace by the cold weather, the brigade entrenched itself behind the wrought-iron railing of the mezzanine and peered eagerly through the garlands of southern smilax that gave the place a mild resemblance to Tarzan set.

Ann Rutherford Is Seen.

Crowned queen of them all is the brigade was Miss Ann Rutherford. Her frequent appearances in route to light the Eternal Flame of the Confederacy to be sworn in as honorary mayor of Atlanta; to console a sick veteran at the Old Soldiers' Home; to welcome arriving M-G-M executives; to be guest of honor at the Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon, she was greeted with well-bred applause and murmurs of polite approbation.

War Relics Displayed.

Attracting interest was the booth of an Atlanta department store. Here, too, was beauty—gold stars topped the bunting, while gold stars topped the booth.

Over the entrance into the auditorium, there stood two large figures. One, that of Jefferson Davis, the other, Alexander Stephens, both honored names in the States period—photographs, vases, chinaware, etc.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLY WELCOMES STARS AT COLORFUL BALL

American notables, tense with excitement, assembled last night in Atlanta's huge city auditorium to see the stars. And stars they saw—Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Olivia de Havilland, Carole Lombard, Claudette Colbert and all their company from the midst of Hollywood's glamour. This picture, made just before festivities got under way, shows most of the seat and boxholders in place. After the introduction of notables, the floor was cleared of chairs for dancing.

Socialites were out en masse last night at the Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" ball in the

houn, Dr. Harry Crosswell and Miss Virginia Willis. Rear are T. S. Will Will Jr. and Miss George Dargan.

Weeks of anticipation reached a climax last night when these holders of cherished tickets presented them to the doorman at the auditorium and passed on into the company of the select, assembled for an evening they'll long remember. The picture shows Mrs. J. P. Smith, of Atlanta; Mrs. S. D. Embick and Lieutenant General S. D. Embick, of Fort McPherson, entering.

This group was flushed as expectant crowds thronged into the auditorium last night for the Junior League's ball. Shown in the group are Mrs. Arthur Lucas (in white); Mrs. W. J. Vereen, of

HOOP SKIRTS TAKE OLD PLACE IN SOCIETY AT THE BALL

BUT STREAMLINED MODERN DRESSES ARE THERE ALSO

Some Costumes Show Frayed Edges While Others Are Well-Preserved Despite Age.

By DEEZY SCOTT.

Floating into the Armory were lovely girls, looking like colorful moths buzzing in and out the gay candle-lit hall. Complete with crinoline petticoats by the dozen, and pantaloons of lace, and corseted in various degrees, they were the belle of the 1860s.

Last night the old Atlanta City Auditorium Armory burst into life again. Debutantes and shop girls, dowers and movie stars, and Atlanta's elite and obscure society filled the hall, and not all the fair ladies were able to master the trick of "floating" in their hoop-skirts and innumerable petticoats and corsets.

The "General Idea."

Some didn't bother with the period costumes. Streamlined evening gowns mingled with new frilly bouffant skirts and some genuine antique dresses, most of which were well preserved—but some of which were frayed around the edges. All in all, the ladies at the ball lived up to their reputation of southern beauty.

Here's a general idea of the dress worn by Mrs. Miss, and little would-be Bonnies at the gala ball. Beautiful pastel costumes fashioned with a tight-fitting pointed bodice, featuring drop shoulders. The gown was made of heavy brocade or mousseuse de soie, with a skirt made of yards and yards of billowing material, and, of course, worn over hoops. Pantaloons and petticoats were very much in evidence, if you happened to notice, and milady got out all grandmother's and great-grandmother's jewelry to lend that touch of the Old South.

Magnolias, cape jasmine, camellias, and even the exotic orchid decorated and perfumed both the costumes and the ballroom.

But, to be more specific, here are the ABC's of who wore what:

ACKLIN, MRS. ARTHUR—Black velvet very decolleté, off-the-shoulder. Her jewelry was a diamond and pearl necklace and diamonds.

ABREU, MRS. FRANCIS—White georgette evening gown, styled with full skirt and a lace-trimmed bodice.

BAIRD, MRS. NEAL—Red velvet bodice with black lace bertha and red velvet a-line, neck, red taffeta skirt worn over hoop.

BAIRD, MRS. WYLIE—Black taffeta-trimmed, scarlet velvet ribbon-trimmed skirt of alternate ruffles of cream lace and little taffeta edges in scarlet velvet, neckline trimmed in a wide black velvet.

BARRON, MRS. N. A.—White taffeta fashioned with a bustle and an off-the-shoulder neckline. She wore a cluster of pearls around her neck.

BARNETT, MRS. STEPHEN J.—Olive green velvet with pane of cream lace, with a wide ruffled neckline, high neck, full skirt with designs all over it, and a wide belt.

BARTON, MRS. ELIZABETH—Black chintz made with a full skirt and a low neck trimmed with white organza ruffles accented with black velvet ribbon.

BOYKIN, MISS JULIAN—Rose taffeta evening dress made with a sequin bodice and a full skirt.

BOYKIN, MRS. JOHN A. SR.—Black crepe dinner dress with turquoise jacket, and a wide white lace-trimmed skirt in cinnamon topped with a jacket of cinnamon and gold.

BRADLEY, MRS. GEORGE JR.—Costume fashioned after a yellow ball gown of the '90s.

ADAIR, MRS. FORREST SR.—Black velvet evening gown with off-shoulder neckline and full skirt.

ADAIR, MRS. JANE—Changeable blue-gray taffeta, off-shoulder neckline with edge of lace, short sleeves trimmed with lace and blue velvet ribbon.

ADAIR, MRS. ROBERT—White taffeta with a wide lace bertha and off-the-shoulder neckline. Her sleeves were over a variety of ruffles caught up on one side of the deep pointed waist.

ADAIR, MRS. MARIE—Light blue taffeta evening gown with silver flowers, trimmed in blue velvet and cream lace.

ADAIR, MRS. ROLINE—Pink taffeta trimed with white roses, with rosebuds and blue velvet ribbon. Basque top with drop-shoulder neckline edged in rosebuds in pearl beads and gold.

ADAMS, MRS. H.—Blue and gold brocade worn with a black lace shawl belt, belonging to her grandmother, and on her hair was a silver brooch.

ADAMS, MRS. ROBERT—Lilac lace with full blue tulip skirt. She wore a blue evening wrap lined with red, and her accessories were a red and gold necklace and a red and gold brooch.

NATION'S SOCIETY FROLICS AT ATLANTA'S GAYEST PARTY

EXCITED GROUPS JAM AUDITORIUM AT GLOWING BALL

Doris Duke Draws Attention From Movie Stars; New York, Washington '400' Is Represented.

By FRANK DRAKE.

The cream of the "400" of the United States and Honolulu glided in excited groups through the portals of Atlanta's municipal auditorium last night to form the gayest, most glittering assemblage ever seen in the south.

Eyes glued to the stars were torn away as dozens of noted people from east and west moved about in their boxes during intermissions.

Shortly after midnight, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Rockefeller, of New York, came in after flying from Washington on the midnight plane. Stewart McDonald, the federal housing director, from the United States capital, also came in during the wee hours while thousands of people were dancing to Kay Kyser's music.

Crowds cheered as Major Clark Howell had the movie executives stand up in their boxes to be seen by the public before the stars were presented.

There, as big as life and twice as natural, was David O. Selznick, president of Selznick International Pictures, which produced the motion picture that has its world premiere here tonight.

Movie Executives.

Spotted about amid the colorful throng were other famous names in movieland. There was Howard Dietz, the publicity director for M-G-M; William R. Ferguson, exploitation director for that company; Thomas J. Connors, sales executive for the same; J. Robert Rubin, M-G-M's general counsel, and William F. Rodgers, the general sales manager.

Joseph R. Vogel, a director of Loew's Inc., and Oscar R. Doob, advertising and publicity director for Loew's, were present too.

Rickenbacker's Party.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker's party attracted much attention from the many in the crowd of 5,000 who came to see the ones who came to be seen.

With this noted war ace pilot were Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Hugh Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brattain, Adolph Garmi, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Shannon, and Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Armstrong, famed names of New York, and Edward Rolf, Miami; Mr. and Mrs. George Howell, Tampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davis, of Nashville. About 150 friends of the hosts were invited.

Atlanta, With True Southern Hospitality, Entertains Hundreds of Visiting Dignitaries at Pre-Ball Parties

Many of the Most Famous Families in Country Are Represented.

Atlanta society, its very best foot forward for the "Gone With the Wind" celebration, entertained hundreds of visiting dignitaries at an elaborate series of private parties yesterday preceding the brilliant premiere ball at the city auditorium.

Many of the most famous families in the country, names which have figured prominently in the social, business and industrial worlds for generations, were represented among the hosts of visitors which gathered here from far and near.

Elaborate Affair.

One of the largest and most elaborate of the many functions was a cocktail party at the Georgian Terrace yesterday afternoon given by Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brett Jr., of New York.

Mr. Brett is president of the Macmillan Company, publishers of Margaret Mitchell's book which started it all.

Honor Guests Listed.

Also included among the honor guests were former Governor and Mrs. James M. Cox, of Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James M. Cox Jr., of Dayton, Ohio; Miss Susan Myrick, of Macon, a technical director on the film version of the novel, and Mrs. Julia Petkin, noted South Carolina author.

Robert's Entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert Jr., of Washington, D. C., entertained a large number of prominent government officials and other visiting dignitaries at the Capital City Club.

Among those present were Frank Murphy, United States attorney general; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. John R. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kurtz, Mrs. Campbell McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Berg, Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Gara, Mr. and Mrs. Robert England, Mr. and Mrs. Legare Davis, John Paschall, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGill, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Tarleton Collier, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. James Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Peterkin, Mrs. Robert Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowsey, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seydel, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee, Mrs. Ed Medlock, Mrs. Luise Sims, Mrs. Ruth Hinman Carter, Harvey Smith, Daniel Whitehead, Hickie, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Thompson, J. T. Miller, Mrs. Minna Hamilton, Joseph Kling, Vassar Woolley, Frank Daniel, Mrs. Dorothy Crossland, Mrs. Ann Couper Gild.

Southern Style Supper.

Miss Sarah Lewis and her brother, Morgan Lewis, were hosts at an ante-bellum "southern style" buffet supper at their home on Peachtree circle, complimenting several popular debutantes.

Honor guests were Miss Selma Wight, Miss Rebecca Wight, Miss Julia Block, Miss Peggy Dutton, Miss Mary Virginia McConnell.

The hosts were assisted by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lewis, and their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morgan.

Garlands of Laurel.

The mantel in the living room was festooned with garlands of laurel, and adorned on either end with antique silver vases containing native southern flowers. The enclosed porch nearby featured a lace-covered punch table graced by silver epoxies of colorful fruit.

A ruby glass punch bowl dominated one end of the table, while a crystal bowl was placed at the opposite end. The walls were screened with smilax.

The coffee table in the dining room was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with an old-fashioned cut glass bowl holding pastel-shaded flowers. Suspended from the crystal chandelier were ropes of smilax draped to the ends of the table in swag effect and tied with huge pink satin bows.

The entertainment was featured Rickenbacker Guests.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Mrs. Rickenbacker, of New York, and their guests were honored at a cocktail party given by Dick Courts at the Capital City Club. The host was assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Malon Courts, Mr. and Mrs. William Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Granger Hansens.

Midnight Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings were hosts at a midnight supper at their home on Clairmont avenue in Decatur following the premiere ball. Those invited were the guests at the buffet supper given earlier by Mr. and Mrs. Granger Hansens.

Georgian Terrace Party.

Governor and Mrs. Frank Dixon, of Atlanta; Mrs. James Little, of Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forson, of Augusta, were honor guests at a party hosted by Mrs. Lawrence R. Rockefeller, Harold Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. George Brett, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Blanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Taylor, of New York.

Present too were officials of the Macmillan Company which published Peggy Mitchell's tome.

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. George Brett, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Blanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Taylor, of New York.

WALLACE BACKS WESTERN WORLD TRADE TREATIES

Says War in Europe
Causes U. S. to Seek Markets Elsewhere.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 14.—(AP)
Secretary Wallace told Farmers Union members tonight that the reciprocal trade agreement program, as a whole, benefited American agriculture before the European war, but that now the world trade picture is "drastically changed."

"As long as the war is in progress, the area in which the reciprocal trade agreement program can effectively operate in Europe is sharply limited," Wallace said.
Because the United States was determined not to become involved in the European war, he continued, "we have chosen to turn our eyes instead to the new world" and build up trade in this hemisphere.

Wallace said that in this connection the proposed trade agreement with Argentina had "frightened some of our farm people," who feared the United States would be flooded with Argentine beef, flax, poultry and dairy products.

YOUNGSTERS ADOPT FAMILY NUMBER 5

Accused as Kidnaper

Dr. W. C. Welch, of Port Arthur, Texas, (above) accused of kidnapping a friend's son, Irwin Mingle, 11, insisted his arrest was a "frameup." He was charged with demanding $15,000 for the safe return of the boy, taken from his home by a masked gunman who bound his parents.

strives to rehabilitate families in distress and help them be self-supporting.

We want these young people to know that always the best way to help someone else is to help that someone help himself.

In the case of William M. and his mother, they have been assured they will be helped while young William is learning in school so he can soon support his mother. She worked hard for years for him and with his graduation almost in sight, her employers let her out. Her great ambition for William to finish school, will be realized now because a group of Atlantans has cared enough to give.

That's worth while. That is doing good. Without a reservation, we predict that William will make a success of life.

But in the meantime, what about the other of the Ten Opportunity families? No. 1 and No.
5 have been adopted.

The stories of Nos. 2, 3 and 4 have been told and today the story of No. 6 appears. Christmas is only a few days away. Before then, the stories of all the Ten Opportunities will have been read by Atlantans. But will they have been assured of their chance?

Give them a break, Atlantans.
Help them along in their battle to overcome their problems so they can be self-supporting.

Your dollars or dimes will aid in their fight. Send or bring a donation this Christmas to Hugh H.
Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution, who is treasurer of the Ten Opportunities. And rest assured that every penny you give will go to help the neediest and most deserving families in the city. That's what the Ten Opportunity fund is for. There is no overhead or administration costs.

If you want to keep it a secret don't put it in The Constitution's

BAR ASSOCIATION
TO HEAR JURISTSRelationship With Lawyers
Will Be Topic.

The relationship between lawyers and the courts will be the principal topic of discussion at the annual dinner of the Atlanta Bar Association to be held at the Ansley hotel next Tuesday evening, at 7:15 o'clock.

Representatives of the nine courts functioning in Fulton county will be honor guests of the association and a representative from the appellate, general and criminal courts will each speak upon the subject, "The Courts Look Upon the Lawyers."

Principal speakers will be Justice W. H. Duckworth, of the Georgia Supreme Court, who will speak for the appellate courts; Judge John D. Humphries, senior judge of the Fulton Superior Court, who will speak for the general courts; and Judge Jesse Wood, judge of the Criminal Court of Atlanta, who will speak for the criminal courts.

W. L. MILLER LEAVES
HOSPITAL AFTER WEEK

W. L. Miller, ousted chairman of the state highway board who was ejected from his office twice, yesterday returned to his home, 596 East Pace's Ferry road, after spending a week at Georgia Baptist hospital for treatment for injuries received when he was dragged from his office the second time.

He was relieved of his duties by order of Governor Rivers.

MORRIS PLAN BANK AWARDS BONUSESAlso Declares Dividend on Capital Stock.

The board of directors of The Morris Plan Bank of Georgia, at its monthly meeting yesterday awarded bonuses to employees and officers ranging up to 10 per cent of annual income, it was announced by George Winship, president. All employees were included, with those whose terms of service were less than one year receiving a flat amount as a "Christmas present."

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the capital stock was also declared, making a total of $6 per share for the current calendar year. The bonus will be paid December 18, and the dividend will be paid December 26 to shareholders as of record today.

Three Out of Four U. S. Voters Favor Dies Continuing Work.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 14.—

Recent criticisms of the Dies in-

Mr. Roosevelt and other New Dealers have caused sentiment for continuing the Dies committee to decline slightly, but a large majority of voters still want to see the investigation go on. These facts are revealed in a national survey just completed by the

Opinion.

At the present time, 75 per cent of those who have an opinion about the investigation think the Dies committee should be continued. The issue put to the voters was: "Should Congress provide money to continue the Dies committee another year?" Congressman Martin Dies of Texas is seeking an appropriation, when congress convenes in January, to extend the investigations into 1940.

The Institute has on two previous occasions sounded the public's attitude toward the Dies committee. A year ago 74 per cent of voters with views on the subject favored continuing the committee.

Roosevelt's Remarks Recalled.

Six weeks ago 79 per cent with opinions on the investigation were in favor of continuation. In this study it was found that when voters were divided into three groups—those in favor of continuation, those opposed to it, and those who had not heard or read of the committee or had no opinion—the group favoring continuation formed a majority, or 53 per cent, of all

A comparison of sentiment before and after the President's re-

Continue the Dies Committee? Yes No

Six Weeks Ago 79% 21%

Today 75 25

VOTERS SEE NO NECESSITY FOR CHANGING COMMITTEE'S

In order to determine whether voters who oppose continuing the committee are against the whole idea of the investigation or are merely dissatisfied with the way the Dies group has conducted it, the Institute conducted a second survey.

The vote of those with opinions

"What is your opinion regarding the Dies committee?"

Congress should appoint some other committee to do the work . . . 12%

Congress should provide money so the Dies com-

'RELIEF FRICTION' WITH RED CROSS DENIED BY HOOVER

Reports of Tension Between Two Organizations Brings Veritable Barrage of Statements.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—Reports of tension between Herbert Hoover's relief organization and the Red Cross, which is headed by President Roosevelt, led to the following barrage of pronouncements today (in chronological order):

1. Hoover denied at New York that there was any friction between his campaign for Finnish relief funds and any other group. He said it "is a great pity that people will start out to poison the wells of human charity."

2. Stephen Early, President Roosevelt's secretary, said that about the time Germany was moving into Poland Mr. Roosevelt, through Chairman Norman Davis of the Red Cross, had sought to have Mr. Hoover become a "sort of general manager of relief" for European war sufferers. Early added that "apparently Mr. Hoover did not fit to accept the offer."

3. Lawrence Richey, Hoover's secretary, said in reply to Early that there was some confusion; that "there was no discussion of Red Cross organization before the war, as he implies." Hoover added that since the war, he had continuously supported Davis and the Red Cross activities. He said that he recommended "strongly that the Red Cross expand to take over every kind of relief, and offered his counsel and advice" but the Red Cross "did not feel that they could assume such large responsibilities outside their normal field."

4. Chairman Davis of the Red Cross said that Hoover, some time ago, had declined to consider heading a proposed Red Cross committee on European war relief. Davis said Hoover told him that "while he was ready to cooperate and assist the Red Cross, he did not feel justified in heading a committee." Davis did not say whether this discussion took place before or after the war.

Hoover, during his interview in New York, had said there was "not a word of truth" in a published report that he declined a Roosevelt invitation to take charge of all public relief activities in the United States because he wished to participate in the 1940 presidential campaign and did not desire to become identified with the New Deal.

The North American wolf is gradually being shoved back to wilder country, says Stanley P. Young in "American Forests," but the coyote holds his own.

'Eternal Flame of Confederacy' Relit, Rededicated

An "eternal flame to the Confederacy" was relit and rededicated yesterday morning at Alabama and Whitehall streets, site of the historic gas lamp which survived the siege of Atlanta. Lighting the lamp is Mrs. T. J. Ripley, president of Atlanta Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy; Commandant T. Guy Woolford, of the Old Guard Battalion; Mrs. Charles Byrd, of the U. D. C., and Captain Henry A. Lawrence, also of the Old Guard.

Eternal Flame of the Confederacy Symbolized in Lighting of Lamp

"May It Never Burn Out for Free and Independent People Over Whom No Tyrant May Ever Rule," Is Hope as Torch Is Applied.

The bustle of traffic on Whitehall street near Forsyth was still for a few minutes yesterday morning by a ceremony dedicated to Atlanta's historic past—the relighting of a gas lamp, which reminded natives of an era portrayed in "Gone With the Wind."

Presiding over the service was Colonel T. Guy Woolford, commandant of the Old Guard Battalion, who stood by and watched Mrs. T. J. Ripley, president of the Atlanta United Daughters of the Confederacy, hold the torch which once again lit the old lamp.

"May this flame ever illuminate our pathway and guide us in the building of a better city and southland," she said as she applied the torch. "May it never burn out for a free and independent people over whom no tyrant may ever rule. In the name of a deathless spirit, I dedicate this perpetual flame to the living south."

The lamp burned continuously through the siege of Atlanta until struck by a federal shell. Extinguished for several years, it was patched and again put into service. In 1918, it was dedicated to Colonel A. J. West, who commanded one of the heroic battalions charged with defending the city against General Sherman. Also on the rededication pro-

MILK BOTTLE BUG MAN PAYS $500 TO GO FREE

Roy Speck, known as Atlanta "milk bottle" lottery operator, who was at liberty under an appeal bond following his conviction in Fulton county courts, yesterday was pardoned by Governor Rivers on condition that he pay a $500 fine. The fine was paid.

Speck, a dairyman, was alleged to have used milk bottles painted white to resemble milk to hide collections of lottery tickets. The Governor's action was taken on the petition of two ministers and a number of Fulton county businessmen. The pardon also is conditional on Speck's good behavior.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 15, 1939.

Symbols of An Age

Margaret Mitchell, when she wrote "Gone With the Wind" and created those world-famous fictional characters of Scarlett O'Hara, Rhett Butler, Ashley Wilkes, Melanie and all the rest, did far more than write a good story. She gave names to the people of an age. She painted a picture of life and conditions in Atlanta of three-fourths of a century ago that is so real and true and vivid it will always be the picture that the greater part of the outside world will see when they think of the Georgia of the eighteen-sixties. To the world, those characters of Scarlett and Rhett and the others will always be real people. When folks think, in the future, of the burning of Atlanta they will always see, as real people against that background, the characters of the Mitchell book.

Just as Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" is the history that 99 per cent of readers today accept as the authentic story of Egypt in that ancient day, so, to future generations, will "Gone With the Wind" be the history of this section for that period and so will its characters become people more real than those who actually lived 75 years ago.

It is, therefore, matter for sincere gratitude that the broad picture of those times should have been drawn, in words, by some one so well informed on the facts of local history as Margaret Mitchell. Possibly the greatest achievement of her book is its truth, its faithful adherence to reasonable fact and the manner in which it refrains from caricature, either the romantic exaggeration of southern partiality or the impossible nobility of visionary northerners.

Today Atlanta signalizes the birth of the Mitchell characters in the speaking and moving realism of the screen. It is an occasion of importance which can scarcely be exaggerated. For, just as the book, the story that will be unreel tonight at Loew's Grand theater is the story which, to practically all the world, will be taken as the exact historic recording of its place and time.

It is, therefore, matter for civic congratulation and for southern appreciation that this fictionalizing of history has been done by one so sympathetic and well-informed as Margaret Mitchell and that the makers of the film version have held, in dialogue and plot and characterization, so closely to the book itself. Maybe there never was a real-life Tara, perhaps Scarlett and Rhett never truly walked on Peachtree street in the flesh. But that doesn't matter. From today on they become very real people, the individuals who carry a reasonably correct visualization of Atlanta of the long ago into the consciousness of the world.

Teeth and the Pituitary

The pituitary gland, situated at the base of the human brain, has long been known to science as a determining factor in sex growth. Now Dr. Robert L. Heinze, staff dentist in the endocrinology clinic of Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, presents a report suggesting that the same gland has a lot to do with the dental development of the individual.

Dr. Heinze's report covered a three-year study of 100 individual cases, not enough to be conclusive, but sufficiently wide to present some interesting indications.

That the teeth and their condition are directly related to the sex strength of the individual is suggested in the fact, contained in the report, that all of these 100 cases were undersexed because of deficiency in the pituitary gland secretions, while 90 of them had perfect or nearly perfect teeth.

On the other hand, says Dr. Heinze, it is generally known that unusually virile men have, almost always, advanced cases of tooth decay, crooked teeth or other dental faults.

Whether Dr. Heinze is correct in his assumption that sex strength and dental condition are both due to the pituitary gland remains to be fully proven. But his report gives rise to some highly interesting speculation in both directions from his hypothesis.

Now the anti-monopoly squad of the Department of Justice is to look into Glass. Darkly, we presume.

Like a good monarch, George does not tarry long in France, as a ruler's place in times like these is with his people—not hiding out along the west front.

It is a Canadian enthusiast who explains his great love for golf by pointing out that it keeps him fresh and fit for golf.

Air Superiority

In fighting a nation like Poland, which possessed an air force only a fraction of that of Germany, Hitler did not hesitate to send out waves of Nazi bombers and fighter planes to rain down hideous death upon Warsaw and other Polish cities. It may be that, in this new war against the British and French as Allies, air superiority is no longer with the Germans and that this is the principal reason why the large scale attacks from the air, so feared before the outbreak of hostilities, have not been experienced by London, Paris or other large cities.

In any event, it is the belief of British authorities today that current Allied production of bombers and fighters and of trained pilots is superior to that of Germany, both in quality and quantity. It may be necessary to apply a degree of discount to this belief, because of British optimism but, if it is true, it affords a striking example of the power of adequate armament to deter an enemy from attack. As such, it should prove an object lesson to the United States in this country's effort to upbuild her defensive arms to the point where no nation in the world would dare to even contemplate carrying warfare to these shores.

That the Allies have a definite advantage in the air at this time is contained in the following British report:

"In designing bombers, the British have stuck to the principle that these machines besides carrying out their allotted task efficiently, must be able to defend themselves. Accordingly, they did not, as the Germans did, sacrifice defense in the air to speed and evasive power. They even went so far as to fit power-operated gun turrets, giving the gunner a steady platform and the ability to swing himself and his gun in any direction without effort. Whereas the German bombers cannot beat off British fighters, British bombers not only frequently out-shoot German fighters, but have occasionally shot them down.

"The British have a clear superiority over the Germans in fighters; their machines can carry eight guns to the German four and are faster and easier to maneuver. Tests of a captured Messerschmitt 109 show these planes to be 'ugly' to handle and inferior to both French and British fighters. New German advances in design may alter this picture, but it is clear that, for the present, the Allies have a definite advantage."

Fashions in Auto Tags

Georgia, with her 1940 automobile license tags advertising, in design and new colors, the "Peach" state, is not the only state among the 48 which is going in for new hues and forms of license tag for the coming year. In fact, when the transcontinental motorist makes his ocean-to-ocean tour in 1940, his eye will be dazzled by some of the newer fashions in tags.

There will be, for instance, the Idaho tag in green on gold; Illinois with cream on coffee brown; Pennsylvania's ultramarine blue on golden yellow, and the artistic tag of North Carolina which will be maroon on aluminum. If you hop over to Puerto Rico you'll find patriotic tags, of red on white and blue.

Thirty-four states have adopted entirely new color schemes for next year's tags, with only 13 and the District of Columbia content with mere reversal of the colors of 1939. Connecticut has a permanent plate in style and color, black on aluminum.

The most popular color combination for license tags is black and yellow; blue and white comes next, black and white third and black and orange fourth.

In addition to Georgia's "Peach" design, a number of states will have a touch of advertising on their plates. New York, for instance, will again advertise the World's Fair on its tags while Wisconsin will let all who ride and read the tag ahead know that she proclaims herself "America's Dairyland."

The snowbound blitzkrieg, launched by Stalin on the doughty Finn, shows the first faint signs of having to become a five-year plan.

Editorial of the Day

APPLIES TO BOTH SIDES

(From The Greensboro, N. C., Daily News)

In the discussions which have been, still are, and will continue with us, in increasing volume, we dare say, upon international policies, relief and what problems is it the country has to meet, it had just as well be recognized, and better late than never, that no one side has a corner on partisanship.

They are questions which involve all of us, which challenge the best thought and leadership of the nation, and which call for a pooling rather than a division of brains and energy. This very unity, however, presupposes the presentation and hearing of all ideas, suggestions and constructive criticisms. That there should be basic differences of opinion goes without saying; and if leaders of divergent views wish to take their respective sides to the American people, to make an election issue out of this or that matter, we do not see what is to be or should be done about stopping them.

Party opposition, party checks and balances still constitute the only way to apply the brakes in this country or to readjust policies or programs which the ins support and apply to changing American opinion. Our concern lies primarily in the manner in which these issues are presented to the American people; certainly party leaders face the gravest responsibility to conduct an intelligent, clear-cut and sincere campaign on issues which so vitally affect the nation as a whole.

They have a patriotic duty to perform in presentation of causes; a duty which should preclude confusion, deliberate befuddlement, demagoguery, appeals to prejudices and emotions and rabble-rousing which is capable of disastrous results indeed.

This duty, this responsibility, this conception of patriotism is hardly confined to one side or one party. It is contemptible for the Republicans to hop on any administration policy or program for the sole purpose of making political capital of it. It is equally contemptible for the Democrats, meaning the administration, to meet any sincere and justifiable criticism by labeling it a cheap and partisan attack. The issue itself and the serious consideration to which it should be subjected can be obscured just as easily by those who cry partisanship needlessly as by those who actually inject partisanship for particularist purposes. Or isn't it the same thing?

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

HOOVER, PEW ARE BUSY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Taft, Dewey and Vandenberg are the only Republicans of standing openly campaigning for the presidency, but numerous other great men in the party are ceaselessly, if somewhat mysteriously, busy. Of these, the most important are Herbert Hoover, who has a large following of old friends and former federal jobholders, and the Sun Oil millionaire, Joseph Pew, who heads the new Pennsylvania junta.

Among conservative Republicans, Hoover and Pew are the strongest figures. Their doings are being watched with apprehension by friends of Governor Alf M. Landon and other moderate leaders. They are not thought to be working together, for the moderates are almost unanimously convinced that Hoover wants to be nominated, and no one expects Pew to back him for the nomination. But each is reported to be encouraging the other with the object of building up a large conservative influence on the party convention.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

Governor John Bricker, of Ohio, who has been aptly described as "an honest Harding" is said to be the real choice of Pew and the Pennsylvania junta. Pew, old Joe Grundy, and other Pennsylvanians are ostensibly committed to support their own governor, the bumbling Arthur James. James, however, is not really available, although his personal belief is to contrary. The play is supposed to be for the Pennsylvanians to go to the convention with a bloc of James delegates, just as Boies Penrose's men went to the 1920 convention with a bloc of delegates committed to Governor Sprout. Then, if the right time comes, they can throw the James delegates to Bricker just as Penrose threw the Sprout delegates to Harding.

History rarely repeats with such ghastly exactitude. It will be pretty hard to get Bricker started when the Ohio delegation is for Bob Taft. In Harding's case, Harry Daugherty at least had the Ohio votes in his pocket.

Meanwhile, however, there is no doubt of the Pennsylvania junta's activity. James has just returned from Texas, where he had a long visit with his adviser, Colonel Carl Estes, the ex-Democrat who left the oil business, bought a pair of false whiskers, and went into politics in a big way. Presumably the real objective of the James visit was that veteran master of southern delegates, the Republican national committeeman from Texas, R. B. Creager. Creager, the master fence-sitter of all time, is claimed as an ally by the Pennsylvanians, but has recently given signs of being more inclined to favor Taft. Whatever Creager does, the Pennsylvanians are out for any delegates they can lay their hands on.

BUSY MR. HOOVER

As for Hoover, the former President grows more busy by the day. Everything he does is watched with suspicion by his Republican enemies. For example, when the war started, he made it plain to the Red Cross that he would like to head up its war relief work. The Red Cross was not interested. Then, when Russia invaded Finland, he telephoned to Hjalmar Procopé, the Finnish minister here, to suggest that he organize relief for Finland. Procopé, hardly knowing what to answer, replied that his country would be glad to accept anything Mr. Hoover offered. Whereupon Hoover issued a statement to the effect that he had "agreed" to undertake the task.

Normally such eagerness would be taken as a symptom of anxiety to work in a good cause, which was probably Hoover's real motive. But Hoover's opponents view these incidents only as part of Hoover's effort to build himself up as a candidate. They repeat the old story of how he telephoned Ogden L. Mills the day after the 1936 convention, to assail him and all Republicans as ingrates for giving the nomination to Landon. And they argue that, if Hoover wanted the nomination then, he must certainly want it now.

Whether or not the Mills story is true—is whether or not the argument is correct—Hoover is certainly as busy as bird dog. He is constantly shuttling back and forth between his apartment at the Waldorf in New York and his house in Palo Alto. On almost every trip, he stops off once or twice for breakfasts, lunches, dinners and talks with local leaders. These Hoover visits, organized in advance by Hoover friends in the places visited, have developed a regular routine. Because of the general Republican respect for Hoover, they are pretty effective. It seems most unlikely that Hoover can get the nomination, even if he wants it. Yet Hoover, far more than Few, should be able to speak loud at the convention.

Subject:

There can, of course, be but one subject for comment in the column this morning. To ignore it today would be but to doom one's effort to be gone with the ink, here, is unconcern before the ink, here, is dry.

Did you notice, by the way, that today's wind in Atlanta has a new tinge, an added potency, a special exhilaration?

That, my dear girls, is because it is the air that is breathed by Clark Gable.

Because, fellows, Vivien Leigh, Olivia de Havilland and the other Hollywood glamor gals are inhaling and exhaling the local ozone.

Maybe that description "glamor gals" is a faux pas. Perhaps Vivien, Olivia and the others will return it, if brought to their attention.

Perhaps they think it infers they are not serious proponents of the story.

Suppose, my uninhibited madam, you did manage to tear away a piece of Gable's shirttail for a souvenir. In a very short time that shirttail remnant, you, and Gable himself, will be gone with the wind and forgotten in the places that once knew you.

There is one among the distinguished visitors I'm hoping to spend some time with. I hope he can arrange his schedule so he can go to lunch with me while here. That is Oscar Doob, Loew's entertainment publicity man. You see I know him and count him as one of my good friends. That's the reason I'm anticipating pleasure because of his presence in the city.

As for the others—I know none of them as yet. If I do get acquainted they may prove as regular as Oscar. But that's something as yet unproven.

"The Sunrise" is the name of a little school paper edited by Misses Fannie Richards and P. R. Boland, of the eighth grade, Crew Street school. Contributions by other scholars are printed and the dear little girls take great pride in their productions, which are strictly original and quite interesting. "The Sunrise" is issued semi-occasionally and without warning.

Christmas Money for Juvenile Artists

Here it is, boys and girls, the last Kris Kringle cartoon in the coloring contest. The Constitution has been conducting for the past 12 days.

If you haven't yet won any of the three daily awards of one dollar, there's still time to capture one of the last prizes.

Here are the rules:

1.—The contest is open to any boy or girl of grammar school age.

2.—Color the drawing of the Kris Kringle Kids which appear accompanying these rules. You may use either crayons or water colors and may decorate the cartoon in any manner you choose.

3.—After you have colored the drawing, print your name, age, address and the school you attend on a sheet of paper and attach it to the cartoon with paste.

4.—Mail or deliver today's drawing to the Contest Editor, Atlanta Constitution, before midnight tonight.

5.—The Constitution will award three prizes a day for 12 days for the best entries. Originality and neatness will be considered in the judging. Names of today's winners will be published Monday.

OFFICIALS SERVE 150 YEARS IN BANK

Institution Has Operated Through Panics, Depressions Since 1859.

C. F. Webster and W. C. Kibler, of Girard, Pa., probably are the two oldest active bankers in the United States.

Between them, Webster and Kibler, cashier and teller, respectively, of the R. S. Battles private bank, have spent 150 years in the Girard bank.

Webster passed his ninety-third birthday this month. Kibler is 96. Both are still active in the affairs of the bank.

The Battles bank has operated through panics and depressions since its establishment in 1859. It was one of the few banks in the country that did not obey the summons of President Roosevelt in 1933, when the chief executive issued his famous "bank holiday" order.

According to reports of the bank's activity at the time, the Battles house received a wire from Washington saying it would have to conform to the existing order whether it was a private bank or not.

The following reply is said to have been sent:

"We're minding our business. You do the same."

Kibler believes the bank holiday was out of the hardest financial blows ever struck in this country. It caught the banks at their lowest ebb, he said, and many of them, since closed, would have been able to pay in full had they been left alone.

Both Webster and Kibler have spent their entire lives in Girard. Kibler has been with the bank 70 years and Webster 80 years.

Follows Successful Season in N. Y. Society.

After a successful season at debutante parties and other society affairs in New York, as well as an engagement at the Hotel Wardman Park in Washington, Arthur Warren and his orchestra open at the Atlanta Biltmore tomorrow through arrangements with the Music Corporation of America.

Maestro Warren has played some of the most exclusive society parties among New York's famous 400. He is distinguished for his smooth interpretation of tunes, both old and new. He likes to feature songs from shows on Broadway and the latest motion pictures. Warren and his orchestra have been heard frequently over the NBC and WOR networks and have therefore acquired a national reputation.

In addition to directing his orchestra, he plays the violin. Mel Anderson is the featured vocalist with Warren's orchestra.

Plays Part of Little Orphan
Egypt.'

Virginia Weidler—you remember her as the delightful little girl in "The Women," and "The Hardys Out West"—gets her first starring role in "Bad Little Angel," which is the current attraction at the Rialto theater.

It tell the story of a little orphan girl in 1885 who is told she is a "jinx" because each of the three families which have adopted her have met with ill fortune. So, because she found in her Bible the words "flee to Egypt," the little orphan runs away from the orphanage and goes to the town of Egypt, New Jersey.

How she influences some of the fascinating characters of that town, reforms the town drunkard, gets the editor's job back for him after he is fired, and even makes the formerly heartless rich man of the place grow human, provides an utterly fascinating story.

In addition to the little star, there is a cast which includes Gene Reynolds, boy actor of "Boys Town," of "Human Hearts" and another recent hits; Guy Kibbee, Ian Hunter, Elizabeth Patterson, Reginald Owen, Henry Hull and Lois Wilson.

Kay Kyser, whose popularity on the air waves is soaring, became a band leader because he could not play a clarinet!

The "Ole Professor," who currently has Charlie McCarthy's face red and Ben Bernie swallowing his cigar because of his popularity, hails from the University of North Carolina. When Hal Kemp left that same establishment of higher education he left it without an orchestra, as he took the entire college band with him when he turned professional.

At that time Kay was merely a young undergraduate who had been presented with a battered clarinet. Hal saw him attempting to produce music therefrom and jokingly suggested that he form a new university band!

A STORY COMES HOME

nce upon a time there was a City, noble in its history, rich in its life!

For its way of life was a gracious way and its citizens loved and married, worked and prospered, and this went on for countless years—till one soft Southern night there was blood on the moon and catastrophe swept over all! Then came grim years and lean years . . . but the City had a great spirit, its citizens an abounding faith . . . and a new Atlanta rose from the ashes of the old! Out of the fullness of the City's history, an author wrote a book, its name "Gone With The Wind". And truly like the wind, the fame of this book, the fascination of its story, swept all through the world. And people everywhere had one reaction. When would the book become a picture, when would the Atlanta story told about be set upon the screen for all to see?

Four years these millions waited . . . four years while all the skills and energies of artists and artisans, technicians and actors, were concentrated upon making of this book a perfection which would even excel the high hopes of the world-audience that awaited it! Tonight . . . all the lights are blazing in Atlanta. For its story has come home, in the premiere of the picture "Gone With The Wind".

A premiere which the citizens of Atlanta, by their unflagging effort and unstinted time, have made notable above all premieres. Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, and many other members of the cast are guests of Atlanta tonight, partaking of the City's traditional hospitality. A brilliant ball, taking rank with the countless social events that have given Atlanta its high name in social life and fine custom, ushered in the event!

The eyes of all the world are upon Atlanta tonight as another page in the colorful annals of its history is written. And the heart of all the world will be ready to welcome the story that has come home to Atlanta before it goes out into the world to bring enthralling pleasure and absorbing entertainment to the millions who eagerly await it!

Deputy Is Accused Tension-Shot Diplomatic Reception Opens White House Social Season

Hearts Heavy Over Wars in Europe and Orient; Invitations Reduced Due to First Lady's Efforts To Free President of Unnecessary Duties.

By BETH CAMPBELL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—The smallest and most tension-shot diplomatic reception in many years opened the winter social season at the White House tonight.

The affair was as brilliant as usual, but the gold braid of diplomats' resplendent uniforms covered, in some cases, heavy hearts and uncertain feelings born of hostilities in Europe and the Orient.

Few guests outside the diplomatic corps were there to see the ambassadors and ministers with their swords and plumed hats or the diplomatic wives gowned in frocks by famous American and European couturiers.

Instead of the usual 1,200 to 1,800 guests, officials said those in attendance were limited to 700.

Battered Battle Victim Rushes to Montevideo Hospital

One of the first battle victims to leave the battered pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, the lieutenant above, his eye bandaged, was rushed in an ambulance to a Montevideo, Uruguay, hospital. The picture above was flown by special plane to Buenos Aires, radioed to New York, and then telephoned.

DOLLAR COLLECTOR HUNTS ELUSIVE COIN

Hobbyist Ignores Personal Gain in Search for Four Rare Pieces.

If the average person had all but four of the silver dollars minted by the United States, he would probably be satisfied. But Rudolph Orlob, of Salt Lake City, Utah, isn't and he won't rest until he has those four elusive coins.

No, Orlob is not a miser, he is collector and possessor of probably the largest and most complete collection of United States dollars in existence. All in all, Orlob's obsession for silver hasn't netted him a great deal of wealth. In fact his 15-year search has netted him only $90.

But every one of those dollars has a story and altogether they form the story of silver in America's history. The collection contains 90 of the 94 different silver dollars struck off by the government since 1794.

"Trade Dollars" Valued.

Many are rare specimens of exceptional historical interest. One of the most interesting is a specimen of the "trade dollar" used in 1873 specially made for use in commerce with China during the days when "clippers" sailed around the Horn and across the Pacific. Chinese merchants demanded high silver content and for that reason the government made the special trade dollars stamped with the words, "420 grains, 900 fine" across the face of the coin.

These dollars were coined only between 1873 and 1878, after which the government reverted to the old standard of 402 1/2 grains, the same as maintained today.

One of the reasons for the rarity of some coins is because they played an important part in ocean commerce—being acceptable in almost any country. For this reason only 12 of the 17,000 dollars coined in 1804 are known to exist. The remaining 16,988 rest somewhere on the bottom of the ocean inside a sunken merchant vessel.

In the same way, the 1870 S mint dollar has been reduced through losses to only two or three known original coins, Orlob said.

Earliest of the dollars is that of 1794 coinage, which has the value stamped around the outside edge as well as on the face. The inscription reads, "one hundred or unit . . . one hundred cents."

The most recent addition to the collection is the shiny, white "cartwheel" of 1935.

Dollars now in circulation include those coined since 1878 and are two major series. Coins in this category are prized by collectors because they play an important part in completing a collection.

Orlob has the only commemorative dollar ever issue—the Washington and Lafayette coin minted in 1900. The smallest dollar is a gold coin about the size of a dime.

Though Victory Meant Death, Captives Pulled for British

62 English Seamen, Locked Beneath Admiral Graf Spee Gun Turret, Counted 17 Hits Scored Upon Her and Cheered for More During Sea Battle.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 14.—(P)—Vivid eye-witness stories of the Admiral Graf Spee's fight with British cruisers were told tonight by members of a group of 62 British seamen who were prisoners directly under one of the 11-inch gun turrets while the Graf Spee threw steel at her attackers.

Freed of their marine prison—several after weeks of confinement—the seamen described how they counted hits by British guns and cheered for the attacking cruisers.

The prisoners were awakened at 6 o'clock in the morning, he said, by cannonading.

Take Battle Stations.

"We knew what that sound meant," he said, "and we knew it was serious when the guards of our quarters locked and barred the doors and left to go to their battle stations.

"As the battle progressed most of us realized a British victory might mean our deaths, but nevertheless there was singing and cheering for the attackers."

"Altogether we counted 17 hits by British shells on the Graf Spee in the various encounters that day."

"Probably you won't believe this, but several men who were shaving when the cannonading began went on and finished the job."

"I had a sore throat and was gargling medicine when we had a British visitor—a piece of shell which had exploded outside tore its way into our quarters without hurting anyone."

"But I swallowed all the medicine!"

The War Is Over.

"Our confinement area was directly under one of the 11-inch turrets. Every time a shot was fired it seemed as if the whole roof had collapsed over us."

"The grandest news we ever had was when an officer came down last night and told us, 'Gentlemen, the war is over for you. We just entered the Montevideo harbor."

"One of the conditions on which the prisoners were released was that they should not talk about

KISS AFTER MIDNIGHT

Faith Tries to Make Appointment, Through Lawyer, to See Astrid

By Margaret Gorman Nichols. know I'm dull company. Shall we go out somewhere?"

SYNOPSIS.
Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, leaves a New England village to make her home in New York and after two years furnishes an apartment with Walter Edmonds, his secretary to Walter Edmonds, vice president of a big firm. Gretchen Cole is a secretary to Walter Edmonds, who is a shrewd roamer. In an Ohio town after a shattered romance, a party is given by Walter's wife, Astrid. Faith meets Franz Braggonier, musician and composer, whom Astrid loves. Even before Faith, the young Edmonds' brother, a famous aviator, is in love with her; but she despairs when Carl says he will never marry her. Walter's wife, Astrid, has a serious life. Even when she kisses her for the first time, she knows her love is hopeless. Gretchen Cole is a girl who has no money and refuses to marry Philip Turner who had quit his job when he met her. Young Michael Britton, who was once a cold, dauntless Sue to whom he finally knew he loved her, but says a cold good-bye. Katharine Stothers, a plump, sensible girl, is in Paris on the same ship and they plan a honeymoon in Italy. Back home again, Sue plans to elope with Carl. Faith, with Walter, asks her to marry him just before Carl calls. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"I can't imagine its disagreeing with any one."

Walter thought, "There is nothing between them now. What happened, I wonder? I won't discuss Astrid with Faith here."

Carl did not stay long. Faith's heart plunged downward when he left, leaving her and Walter in this room where it had all begun.

Wise or foolish, right or wrong, she telephoned Gilbert Forman the following morning and asked for an appointment during her lunch hour.

She was sitting between them, loving one, curiously bound to the other. So curiously bound to Walter that she might make the fatal mistake of marrying him, because she pitted him, respected him, admired him and was loyal to him.

She thought, looking at Carl's fair head and sculptured face in detail, "I can't sit by and wait any longer! I can't let Astrid spoil three lives. I can't marry Walter INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

"Good night, Faith. I'll call you." And tomorrow was over and she was Michael's wife—she was Mrs. Michael Britton . . .

The lovely room in which Faith had first seen Carl was quiet and dimly light now. The same room that had been thickly peopled that day in October held only her and Walter this February night. Walter and herself alone—but rejected. They were helpless in the course of events which had happened since that night. Was it meant to be this way—Walter and her alone together? How could it have been otherwise?

He lighted a cigarette and looked at her, holding her dark eyes with the gravitas of his. He took a deep breath before he said, "Faith, when this is over, I am going to ask you to marry me."

This that Astrid has been certain of—and Carl . . . "Wouldn't that be a great mistake, Walter?"

He shook his head. "Not with me. Only for you if later you met some one and loved him." He said gently, "You're alone and I'm alone and Sue loves you. When this is over, we'll both need you."

"You're sorry for me."

He smiled. "And for myself, too."

He did not know when it had occurred to him first to ask her to marry him. Certainly it had not been spontaneous. It was as if, he thought, it had been arranged, that it was a not unpleasant duty. Tired, numb, he could not explain himself. You could be hurt into feeling nothing. And tonight sitting opposite Faith he could not think beyond his need of her and her need of him.

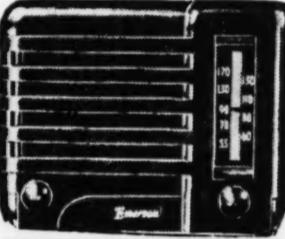

Faith said, "You're still in love with Astrid, Walter."

"Yes. I told you I loved my wife. So much has been given that cannot be taken back or transferred to some one else. You can't partition love. And I can't be dishonest with you. I can't get up and come to you now and make love to you and make fine promises." He smiled again. "I

A Little Woman of Mystery

Entire Squad, Band, Many Cadets Make Trip With Aggies

On the last of two straight junkets to the Rose Bowl enjoyed by the writer, Southern California was Duke's opponent. Al Wesson, one of the ace directors of athletic news on the Pacific coast, thought it most unusual that a fellow named Troy should hob up with a southern team to cover a game against the "Sons of Troy," as the Trojans are called.

Wesson made capital of that, and in a letter received from him yesterday, he's still at it. Al's letter, which reveals that the bowl, with a seating capacity of 90,000, already is sold out, follows:

"Dear Jack:

"You are a helluva poppa to us Trojans because I wrote you a letter once that you never answered. (My mistake, Al; surely it must have gone to the wrong address.) However, in hopes that you will come back out here this winter, I forgive the neglect and hasten to answer your wire.

"I am inclosing a copy of pertinent statistics to date and also personals on the Trojans of 1939.

"If you need any anything else, please let me know. We haven't had a chance to send out anything on the big game yet because we have been so swamped with ticket inquiries. The game is probably sold out right now if we could stop all orders and go just on what we are already in.

"Hope to see you soon.
"Best regards,

THEY'LL LEAD TEXAS AGGIES AGAINST WAVE IN SUGAR BOWL

AUBURN TO PLAY S. M. U.--REPORT

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP) The Ledger is saying today that it has learned on good authority Southern Methodist University, of Dallas, Texas, will appear on the 1940 football schedule of the Auburn Plainsmen.

While the date for the game is not given, the story indicates it is due to be played in Dallas. The Mustangs are expected to replace Manhattan.

The Ledger also says the chances are "better than ever" that two games will be played at Auburn next season.

Clemson is also listed for a game on November 9, and the battle with Florida again is available, it is understood.

Auburn plans to open the season in a game at Montgomery with Howard, of Birmingham.

Midget Bowl Game Planned by Macon

MACON, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP) Macon is planning a new type of bowl football game for New Year's Day. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning a game at Centennial stadium between two outstanding midget teams.

Foy Evans, Macon Evening News columnist, writes:

"The midgets would get a feel of 'Mr. Big' if they played before several thousand fans."

Albany Plays Athens For 'B' Grid Title

Undefeated, Untied Indian Eleven Favored in Albany This Afternoon.

By JIMMY ROBINSON.

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Termed one of the greatest football teams ever to draw on the cleated shoes in this section, Albany's Indians, champions of the South Georgia Football Association, are all set to meet Athens High's Maroons, north Georgia titlists, in a game to decide the state's Class B champion here Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Albany stadium.

Coached by Harold E. McNabb, Carson-Newman graduate and former line coach at Mercer University, whose Albany teams for the last eight straight years—since he's been guiding football destinies here—have lost but one game to second congressional district adversaries, the Indians went through their 11-game season undefeated and unbeaten.

Last Friday, they climaxed a perfect campaign by swatting Albany's Brunswick's Glynn Academy in a post-season affair, 27-0, to annex the S. G. F. A. crown for the first time in the five-year history of the conference. In 1935 and '36, they lost out to Glynn in the title playoffs, and played to a scoreless tie with the boys from the marshes last season in a preliminary playoff.

Auburn plans to open the season in a game at Montgomery with Howard, of Birmingham.

The Bulldogs are slated to replace Birmingham-Southern, which is dropping from intercollegiate competition after this season.

Roaming the flanks are two six-footers, Roy Shultz and James (Chain-Gang) Davis, at the left and right ends, respectively. Both are good pass receivers and cover downfield punts to perfection.

At tackles the Albany grid professor has four men available, with the starting combination of Jimmy Dismuke and Robert Middleton being a powerhouse. Subs who see frequent service and push the first-stringers for their spots are Malin Armstrong and Roger Mozette.

STRONG LINES.

Albany's main assets are one of the best lines ever seen in state high school circles and a 175-pound quarterback, Felix Marbury, a runner whose power has blasted 12 opponents right off the map. That line which opens the holes and permits the backfield legions to pour through has been dubbed the Seven Iron Indians.

The forward wall yielded to permitting opponents to score 34 points during the season but never failed to pave the way for Albany's touchdowns.

FIVE GUARDS.

Four equally able men can fill the guard slots. All-SGFA Clarence (Junior) Boynton and Jack Begley usually start Albany's games, but the combine of George (Whit) Whittlesey and Collins Knight play just about as much.

At center, Coach McNabb has a six-foot, one-inch boy who is rated among the all-time greats of this section—George (Mutt) Manning, a wheel-horse on offense and a holy terror on defense. He is the line backer-up when the Indians don't have the ball—which has been seldom this year.

The line will average in the neighborhood of 173 pounds.

Besides the magnificent Marbury in the backfield, there are: Early (Rat) Riley, the 130-pound tailback, a boy with an amazing drive for his weight; Jack Stanton, running halfback who galloped 104 yards on a kick-off return to score on Moultrie as the Braves won this one in a rout, 40-7; and last, but far from least, Ed Jones, the blocking back, who is to Albany what Sam Bartholomew is to Tennessee.

Albany's record for the season follows:

Albany 41, Sylvester 6; Albany 38, Emanuel County Institute 6; Albany 4, Marion College of Atlanta 6; Albany 20, Waycross 6; Albany 32, Cairo 6; Albany 24, Tifton 6; Albany 26, Fitzgerald 6; Albany 20, Monroe 7; Albany 26, Locust Grove High 6; Griffin 1937 state champions 14; Albany 7, Valdosta 6; Albany 7, Thomasville 6. Then, there's the win over Glynn.

Setterich Is Honored By Thomasville High

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14.—Jack Setterich, captain of the 1939 Thomasville High school football squad, which recently closed its most successful season in seven years, was voted the outstanding member of the team and was awarded a wrist watch by the Bank of Thomas county.

Ted sweaters with "T" were presented to team members by Coach Harper and it was announced that Clyde Griffin was elected captain for the year 1940 with Hansell Watt as alternate captain.

Sugar Bowl Grid Battle Sure Sellout

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14.—(AP)

The Sugar Bowl was short of a sellout today by only a few dozen combination as word came from Texas A. and M. that their supply of 12,000 had been disposed of and Tulane authorities announced they would take care of their own allotment.

All that remained for sale were a few of the $10 combination tickets admitting the purchaser to all events on the midwinter sports program, including the Tulane-Texas Aggies football game.

Possibility of putting up temporary wooden seats to add to the 70,000 capacity of the Tulane stadium was being considered, but no definite announcement to this effect has been made.

Ed Hooker, secretary of the A. and M. athletic council, notified

Texas Aggie Spirit Is Great; Dog Mascot Is 12th Man on Team.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Texas Aggies, ranked by experts as the nation's No. 1 football team, will barge into the Sugar Bowl against Tulane with:

A 210-piece band.
A dog mascot.

And a goodly part of the college's 6,000 cadets.

The cadets, the dog and the band long have been known as the Aggies' "twelfth man." They couldn't play without 'em.

Every man who came out for varsity football and remained, including the ineligibles who didn't see a minute's service, will make the trip.

And that big squad will include

TECH MATCHES ORF TWINS WITH ISON AND WEBB

Jackets Look Good in First Scrimmage Since 'Vacation.'

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. There has been quite a bit written about Missouri's twin-brother ends, Bob and Bud Orf, and in all fairness to them, they are great pass snatches.

Any one who saw the newsreel in which one of them grabbed a pass over the goal line with one hand against Kansas will admit as much.

But Georgia Tech, who will play the Tigers in the Orange Bowl, have a couple of pretty fair country flankmen, too. They are not twins, not even brothers. But they are pretty fair country foot-ball players.

ISON AND WEBB. There's Rob Ison, all-Southeastern performer, and George Webb, elongated sophomore pass-snagger du luxe. And when these two boys start catching 'em to hell, strangers in the stands may think the Orf twins got mixed up and are playing on the wrong side.

Ison is one of the conference's leading scorers, having made six touchdowns this season. All were not made on passes. One, maybe two, came on end-abouts. But he can snag 'em well enough to make nearly every all-Southeastern team.

His teammate, Webb, is taller than Ison and almost as glue-fingered. His specialty is taking six passes right over the line for eight or nine yards. It is nearly im-

THROWS TO SPOT.

When throwing directly over the line, Webb has to pass to a spot because he is so small he can't see over the linemen's heads. So he just throws where the man ought to be and Webb is there nearly all the time.

Both teams have other standout flankmen but these four have been the most publicized and they will have attention of the fans upon them.

The end play in the Orange Bowl stadium should be the best in any bowl. There is little doubt four other fellows are as versatile as these.

FIRST SCRIMMAGE.

The Jackets went through their first scrimmage since resuming work yesterday and turned in pleasing performances.

For about an hour the varsity ran rough shod over the Bee team. Earl Wheby, senior wingback, was the big star of the session, twisting and turning his way the length of the field for one touchdown and making several other fine runs.

The team emerged from the drill in good condition. There were no injuries.

SWING LOW FOR SWEET CHARITY--NICE FORM?

Lovely Movie Actress Paulette Goddard displays dazzling form as she socks out a long drive in a charity golf match at Hollywood. In the foursome with Paulette were, left to right: Crooner Bing Crosby, with pipe and hat; Comedian Bob Hope, who has his arm around Dancer Ruby Keeler. As you notice, the match attracted a large gallery, with proceeds going to charity.

AMBERS NAMED 'COMEBACK' KING

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14. (P)—Major R. E. (Babe) Florence, coach of the Georgia Military College basketball team, believes his club will hold its own this season with any other junior college in the state.

"I don't want to get on a limb," he said, "but I believe we'll be able to give any other junior college outfit a real battle."

LEADS RICHMOND.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14.—(P) Harold McVay, 220-pound tackle from Norfolk, Va., was elected captain of the University of Richmond football team for the 1940 season at the university's annual football banquet tonight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—Lou Ambers, the first fighter ever to regain the lightweight championship from the man who dethroned him, has been elected the prize "comeback" of 1939 by the country's sports experts who participated in the Associated Press' ninth annual poll.

The little Herkimer Hurricane, who won his 135-pound title back from Henry Armstrong in their famous "battle of the fous," barely nosed out the veteran Lefty Moses Grove, of the Boston Red Sox, for the distinction, with 56 points to 50 for the pitcher. Tony Galento, the heavyweight fighter, placed third, with 43 points.

Altogether, 67 athletes were nominated as first, second or third choice by 73 writers. Ambers was the first choice of 13, while 10 plucked for Grove and 9 for Tony. Three points were awarded for first, two for second, one for third.

CLOSE RACE.

It was a close thing between Ambers and Grove right down to the final batch of votes. Whereas Ambers' victory over Armstrong in their second battle was clouded somewhat by the fact he was awarded five rounds on fouls, Grove's remarkable performance was clean-cut.

In 1938 Lefty's arm went dead and as he was on the brink of 40 there wasn't much hope he ever would pitch effective ball again. Yet he came back the past season to win 15 games, lose only four and keep the Red Sox in second place in the American league.

Galenito's comeback was from the siege of double pneumonia that laid the great bartender low and threatened to end his ring career just when he was about to reach the contender class. Also, when Tony made his heroic stand against Champion Joe Louis and then knocked out Lou Nova, he wiped out the memory of several malodorous build-up bouts.

MEADE FOURTH.

Fourth on the list with 29 points, and the choice of six voters as the outstanding comeback, was Don Meade, the little jockey from South Dakota. Restored to the saddle after being grounded nearly three years by racing officials, he was the leading winner of the season.

Nile Kinnick, Iowa footballer, and Al Hostak, Seattle middleweight fighter, each received four first-place votes. Dick Metz, Chicago golfer; Dutch Leonard, the veteran pitcher who won 20 games for Washington; Curt Davis, St. Louis Cardinals' Pitcher, and Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, gained two first-place votes apiece.

MEADE FOURTH.

The pass defense also received attention.

"Georgia Tech has clever passes, know, even though we have no scoring material on which to base such a statement," Faurot said, "and we need work on pass defense."

Faurot said he had talked long distance with Bill Alexander,

Georgia Tech coach, and had learned that Tech would arrive in Miami, December 24.

"We'll arrive there about the same time," the Tiger coach dis-

Don Faurot Says Editorial Unfair To Athletic Body

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 14.—(P)—Coach Don Faurot today branded as "unfair" to the athletic committee the Missouri student editorial which said the Orange Bowl bid was accepted only because of the deliberate and uncompromising move of the athletic committee to cash in on a good football team.

"If anyone should be called as the student editor, I am the one, not the athletic committee," Faurot said, "the athletic committee was reluctant to approve any bowl game, but on the insistence of myself and 34 of my 37 players, they consented—only, however, after I assured them we would practice only four times before the Christmas vacation began and the boys would not miss a single class."

Faurot said the athletic committee approved the game and trip more as a reward for the players than for the financial gain.

"In fact," he added, "the committee turned down one bowl bid that appeared more lucrative, just so the boys could take this trip to Florida.

"The athletic committee has authorized Business Manager Spurlling not to pinch pennies on the trip and to show the boys a good time."

Answering the Missouri student editorial, which charged university students could not attend the Orange Bowl game without loss of credit hours, Faurot remarked: "As far as the students are concerned, if they care to come back from Florida on the same train with the team they will not miss any school time. We will return in time for the start of classes the morning of January 3, the day Christmas holidays end."

Christman's Arm In Excellent Shape

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 14.—(P)—Paul Christman's passes were much in evidence today as the Missouri Tigers brushed up on their Orange Bowl tactics.

The blond bomber tossed completed aerials all afternoon in a long drill that brought a comment of "very satisfactory" from Coach Don Faurot.

The pass defense also received attention.

"Georgia Tech has clever passes, know, even though we have no scoring material on which to base such a statement," Faurot said, "and we need work on pass defense."

Faurot said he had talked long distance with Bill Alexander,

Georgia Tech coach, and had learned that Tech would arrive in Miami, December 24.

"We'll arrive there about the same time," the Tiger coach disclosed, "for I want the boys to heat and the Miami altitude, which the Duke game. It was the writer's belief that there was a bit of "screening" on the Nave-Kreuger series of passes that beat Duke in the final two minutes.

All this was ironed out later to the satisfaction of all.

So it is indeed gratifying still to be considered out there as the Trojans' poppah.

Doggone those sons, though; if they take any liberties with Tennessee, poppah will feel inclined to spank.

TURN IT IN, F. M.

It is with more pleasure than this correspondent can put over on paper that the opportunity is presented to instruct F. M. Williams, our Athens correspondent, to turn back the key to room 505, Holman hotel.

There had been a sort of ritual at the old Holman each January when the athletic board of the University of Georgia met. Atlanta writers would meet there and await the announcement of the new coach and staff.

So it won't be necessary to have room 505 again. Either turn it back to the desk or throw it away, F. M. In due time the Associated Press will bring the news that the present staff has been formally signed to a new long-term contract, which it deserves.

Coaches are entitled to some sort of security. As a general rule, they're all married men. They need security to keep their minds easy for coaching matters.

And so I say congratulations—if they are in order—to the powers that be at Athens. Cheers for a setup that will stay around awhile.

They are all accomplished members of the profession, are Wally Butts, Ears Whitworth, J. V. Sikes, Bill Hartman, Elmer Lampe, Quint Lumpkin, Spec Townes, Howell Hollis and Fitz Lutz.

OPPORTUNITY FINALLY KNOCKED.

While we in sports were pretty much engrossed with another great southern novel entitled, "Gone With the Wind," we thought that sooner or later the news side would get around to asking a little co-operation on "G. W. T. W."

And so it was yesterday that the managing editor came rushing over to the sports desk and exclaimed, "For heaven's sake, loan us a man; loan us two men; we're swamped!"

Very calmly and with a certain amount of pride, the sports editor said, "Why, sure; we'll be glad to help you."

"Fine," the managing editor snapped, "we need two men to go with the photographer from Life magazine, one to run errands and the other to carry his camera."

Can you beat that?

ANOTHER 'ANKLE' CASE.

Rare is the story of an injury happening to a man, like Kenneth Gregory spraining both ankles on an alleged possum hunt, that Coach Bill Alexander out at Tech can't match with an anecdote of his own.

For instance, Alex recalled the plight of Bob Strickland yesterday. Strickland suffered one succession of injuries after another, Alex pointed out, and they about had him ready for a certain game.

Then, to Alex's dismay, Strickland came limping into the dressing room and explained he had stepped into a hole.

"Stepped into a hole?" Alex exclaimed. "Where? I don't believe it."

"Coach, it happened in front of the dining hall," Strickland declared.

"Well, sir, I want you to show me that hole," Alex countered, and they went off together.

"Now this is the craziest part of it," Alex said yesterday. "We went looking for the hole and doggedon if he didn't step into that hole again and sprain both ankles!"

WILD-EYED YARN.

A wild-eyed yarn came out of New York yesterday. The story said that Tech and Missouri, which will meet each other without the benefit of scouting, are exchanging formations by mail.

"Never heard of it," Coach Alexander responded when informed of what he and Coach Don Faurot allegedly were doing.

"I talked long distance with Coach Faurot the other day. We decided during the conversation to use a certain kind of football, certain officials and not to wear jerseys of the same color. That's about all we talked about."

Of course, knowing Coach Alex slightly, the story out of New York seemed unreasonable on the face of it. Tech doesn't exchange, nor ask, formations when playing any opponent they haven't had a chance to scout.

California wasn't scouted in 1937 when the Bears came to Grant field. Nor did Tech scout the Bears last year when they went out there. Tech's always willing to take its chances when knowing the other team has no idea what Tech is going to do, either.

Eight Share Lead in Miami Open

SNEAD, GULDAHL,
HORNE, HEAFNER,
AMONG LEADERSAlso Nelson, Metz, Hines and Clark; All Have 68s.

By H. J. ARONSTAM.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—(UP)—The lead in the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament was shared tonight by eight after a record first-round assault on par that saw 22 better regulation figures for the 18 holes.

A two-under-par 68, posted early by Stanley Horne, young Canadian professional, was matched by National Open Champion Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Dick Metz, Sam Snead, Jimmy Hines, Clayton Heafner, of Lincoln, N. C., and Art Clark, an unknown from Uniontown, Pa.

It looked at least twice that the mark would not stand up, but the pressure told both times on the final green.

Ralph Guldahl, national open champion in 1937 and 1938, had the best chance, but kicked it away with a bogey five at the 18th, after firing four birdies on the back nine. Snead had a 10-foot putt to make on the final hole, but missed by an inch.

NINE-HOLE CARDS. The nine-hole cards of the leaders were Horne, 36-32; Nelson, 34-33; Guldahl, 35-33; Metz, 35-33; Snead, 36-32; Hines, 36-32; Heafner, 36-32, and Clark, 36-32.

An amateur, young Wilford Wehrle, of Chicago, led the list of 14 names at 69. Wehrle carded a 36-33.

The pros bracketed a stroke behind the leaders were Craig Wood, Denny Shute, Big Ed Dudley, Paul Runyan, Jim and Joe Turnesa, E. J. Harrison, of Little Rock, Ark.; Ben Hogan, of White Plains, N. Y.; Frank Moore, of Reading, Pa.; Ralph Hutchison, of Bethlehem, Pa.; Maurice O'Connor, of Belleville, N. J., and Marvin Stahl, of Lansing, Mich.

Defending Champion Harold (Jug) McSpaden stayed near the top with a 70. Bunched with him were P. G. A. Titleist Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta, Frank Walsh, of Rumens, N. J.; Sam Byrd, of Philadelphia; Bill Heinlein, of Indianapolis, and Felix Serafin, of Scranton, Pa.

“NAME” GOLFERS.

“Name” golfers were strong out as far back as 77 where the veteran Gene Sarazen, who worries more about his farm now than his golf, and Horton Smith, the former “Joplin Ghost,” were listed.

Among the 14 tied at 71 were Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Willie Klein, of Williston, Fla.; Johnny Bulla, of Chicago; Gene Kunes, of Philadelphia; Rod Munsey, of White Plains, N. Y.; Mike Turnesa, of Fairview, N. Y., and Cliff Spencer, of Washington.

Jimmy Thomson, the long-hitting Californian, Ray Mangrum, of Oakmont, Pa.; Ralph Stonehouse, of Indianapolis; Jose Fernandez, of Havana, Cuba, and Jack Grouf, of Hershey, Pa., had 72s.

It's taken for granted that the “twelfth man” will go along.

Things wouldn't be right if that massive band, led by Reveille, a tiny dog with a big maroon “T” on its blanket, didn't precede the Aggies on the field.

The throaty roar of thousands of khaki-clad “brothers,” many of whom will spend days thumbing their way to New Orleans, is as much a part of the Aggie setup as a quarterback.

SECOND LARGEST.

The Aggie athletic council unanimously voted to send the band, second largest collegiate band in the nation, to the New Orleans classic, expenses paid. No definite check has been made on the number of students expected to go, but 1,500 tickets have been sold to date.

Twice annually the cadets, with their band and dog, follow the Aggies to foreign games in one body on special train.

On their own Kyle field they occupy a huge block in the center of the stadium, the constant drumming coming from 6,000 youngsters who stand throughout the game, sounding like a giant beehive.

Yells are barked in short, chopped tones, similar to the West Point and Annapolis cheerers. Not a night passes during the football season, rain or shine, that the Cadets don't gather in front of the “Y” building on the campus and go through a 30-minute yell practice.

And yell it is—the word “cheer” is taboo in Aggieland.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 14.—(UP)—Down in Dixie where football is a crusade, there was no question of greater import today than whether or not the University of Tennessee should take its entire football squad and band to the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

It was a subject of discussion in Tennessee from the Governor to the newsboy on the corner—and there were very decided two schools of thought on the matter.

The news that Texas A. and M. will take its 50-man squad, 210-piece band and a dog to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, accompanied by a goodly number of student cadets, mattered not one whit to Tennesseans.

While Kinnick goes down in the books as the public's 1939 hero by acclaim, three other backs take statistical honors—Kenny Washington, great negro halfback from the University of California at Los Angeles; Tom Harmon, the Michigan Spook, and Kay Eakin, the Arkansas Traveler.

These three wound up in a photo finish for individual total offensive honors. Washington gained 1,365 yards in 10 games to rank first. Harmon was nine yards back at 1,356 in eight games, and Eakin was 14 yards behind Harmon at 1,356 in 10 games.

To Lead Nation

SEATTLE, Dec. 14.—(P)—The 1939 football season failed to produce an outstanding performer statistically, that is.

There were no Whizzer Whites, as of 1937, nor Davey O'Briens, as of 1938, who not only caught the popular fancy but who also captured statistical honors as yardage gainers on the ground and in the air.

This was the conclusion today of the American Football Statistical Bureau.

The gridder who did catch the popular fancy, Nile Kinnick, iron man from Iowa, ranked ninth among the season's greatest ground-gainers, gaining 998 yards in eight games. He ranked fourth in average yards gained per game with 124.8.

It's a fact! This year you don't have to spend extra money to get whiskey that's “fine enough for the holidays.”

Just the opposite! Rich, famous Old Quaker—every drop now 4 years old and finer than ever—is so smooth, mellow and delicious that it actually rivals many more expensive whiskies! And here's how we know:

We were aware men were switching to Old Quaker. But we wanted to find out why. Was it Old Quaker's rock-bottom price? Or was taste more important still? We sent investigators to ask. Forty-six cities were covered—1,156 men questioned. Their answers amazed even us.

Read the typical statements at right. They show these men found Old Quaker not only rich in flavor—mild and delightfully smooth—but so low in price that they actually save up to $1.48 a quart on every bottle they buy.

Sample Old Quaker yourself. See how rich and smooth-tasting it is—then figure up how much less it costs you. Save those extra dollars! Stock up for the holidays now!

DIVIDEND DECLARED.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 14.—Directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association last night declared a regular 2 per cent semi-annual dividend, payable shortly after the first of the year, Jack Williams, president of the association, announced.

BAXLEY LEGIONNAIRES
HONOR HOYT C. BROWN

BAXLEY, Ga., Dec. 14.—(P)—State Commander Hoyt C. Brown of the American Legion was honored by fellow citizens of Baxley today for his services to the Legion.

The program, ending with a barbecue tonight, included dedication of Baxley's new $50,000 auditorium-gymnasium.

Scheduled speakers included Senator Richard B. Russell and Delacey Allen, of Albany, former Georgia Legion commander.

The new officers were installed by Georgia Grand Master J. Wilson Parker, of Fairburn and Atlanta, assisted by other members of the grand lodge.

MILL IN CARROLLTON TO GET MORE SPACE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
CARROLLTON, Ga., Dec. 14.—Construction went forward today on a new brick building to house the Maryon Hosiery Mills, thus assuring retention of at least one mill which had contemplated removal from the city for lack of adequate quarters.

Since several of Carrollton's smaller mills recently announced plans to leave the city because of the pressing need for larger quarters, movements have been launched to provide them with adequate facilities.

EMERGENCY CALL.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 14.—(P) A Brunswick ambulance operator received an emergency call to pick up an automobile wreck victim. Arriving at the scene, the driver found the victim was his father. The father had escaped with only minor scratches.

WOMAN, 55, BEATEN IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 14.—(P) Mrs. F. Damiano, 55-year-old merchant, was seriously beaten today in what police described as a daylight holdup attempt. The beating, police believed, followed an unsuccessful effort to force her to give up the money in the store.

Police, called by three salesmen who found Mrs. Damiano as she entered to make routine calls, chased and arrested a negro they listed as Ben Easley Jr. Police-man I. M. Richardson said the negro, armed with a small pistol and wearing blood-stained clothing was found hiding under an automobile.

Delta Tau Deltas
Plan Christmas Party
For Needy Children

Six needy children will be visited by Santa Claus at a Christmas party to be given by the Beta Epsilon chapter of Delta Tau Delta this evening at their chapter house on Fraternity Row at Emory University. An annual event, the party will assemble the members of the fraternity, their dates, and several members of the alumni chapter.

Santa Claus, who will be portrayed by Buford Moore, Manchester, Ga., will bring useful gifts to the boys and girls, who range between two and seven years. Following his visit members of the freshman pledge club will stage short skits for the guests, and later the whole chapter will join in the singing of Christmas carols.

Members of the fraternity include: Edward Gazzelle, Thurman Williams, Red O'Neil, Wallace Stewart, Parker Bedingfield, Earl Royals, Glover Jordan, James Cannon Jr., Charles Read, Edgar Cline, Carl Chandler, Bobby Brown, Sam Burbage, Mac West, Hugh Rickenbacker, Justus Gower, Philip Cordes, John Harbin, Billy Landrum, Joe Bolt, Buford Moore, Herbert Stewart, James Johnson, Pete Hydrick, Berry Langford and Sam Gibson.

Young ladies invited are Misses Jane Gutschel, Elizabeth Harvard, Becky Courtney, Lucille Brewster, Helen Burch, Julia Harvard, Elizabeth Harris, Betty Bowling, Elizabeth Harris, Betty Bowling, Martha Rhodes, Sarah McGee, Mary Frances Moore. Alumni attending are Mr. and Mrs. G. Leonard Allen Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. Phillips, Sam Meyer Jr., Murphy Holloway Jr. and Otis White, B. E. Brooks, and others.

Phi Gamma Deltas
Give Dance Tonight

Gamma Tau of Phi Gamma Deltas will sponsor its annual Christmas dance, this evening at 10 o'clock, at East Lake Country Club, for members of the fraternity, alumni, and friends.

The officers of the fraternity are—Dan Williams, president; Christian Kurre, treasurer; Frank Shoemaker, corresponding secretary; Hiram Van Buren, recording secretary, and Earl Wheby, historian.

Chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ginn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Armistead, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Krauth, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Bolton.

Members are—Dan Williams, Christian Kurre, Frank Shoemaker, Hiram Van Buren, Earl Wheby, Lucas Neas, Ted Watson, Arthur McClure, Howard Barfield, Eric Weissenberger, Bob Steudel, Stan Elman, Bob Leckrone and Hoy Williams.

The pledges are—George Smith, Locke Trigg, Doug Chambers, Bob Willen, Tom Walker, Howard Wachter, Jim Wright, Charles Haynes, Boyd Hinds and Frank Sheetz.

Marietta Visitors
To Be Entertained.

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Churchill, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bering and Mr. and Mrs. William Sinek, of Chicago, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Suhr. Mr. and Mrs. Suhr and their guests will attend the GWTW premiere in Atlanta. They will be entertained at a luncheon by Mrs. Eugene McNeil and at a dinner by Mrs. M. L. McNeil Jr. and Mrs. Paul Sloan. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clay will entertain for these visitors at an aperitif party in Atlanta.

Mrs. Goldie Fuller will attend the luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club given Friday by Better Films Corporation for the stars of "Gone With the Wind."

Miss Virginia Milner, niece of Miss Gussie Groves, and senior at Agnes Scott College, has been named among Who's Who, a list made up from outside students at American colleges.

Mesdames Len Baldwin, Carol Beiman, Kelly Bogle, Mayes Ward, Frank McNeil, Frank Wellons, R. L. Coggins, J. H. Hawkins, W. M. Reynolds, Eugene Shea, Robert Suhr, L. M. Blair, Arthur Crowe, John Elder, W. M. Brumby, Eugene McNeil, Fred Legg, Allen Webb, J. R. Miller, Robert Goodman, Caroline Healey, Frank Mills and J. W. Corley will entertain at a Christmas dance December 28 to honor their sons and daughters in high school and at preparatory schools.

Mrs. Tom Mann entertains at a party December 22 at her home on Freyer drive honoring her daughter, Barbara, on her birthday.

Mrs. Horace Adams honors her daughter, Suzanne, at a birthday party Saturday at her home on Dixie avenue.

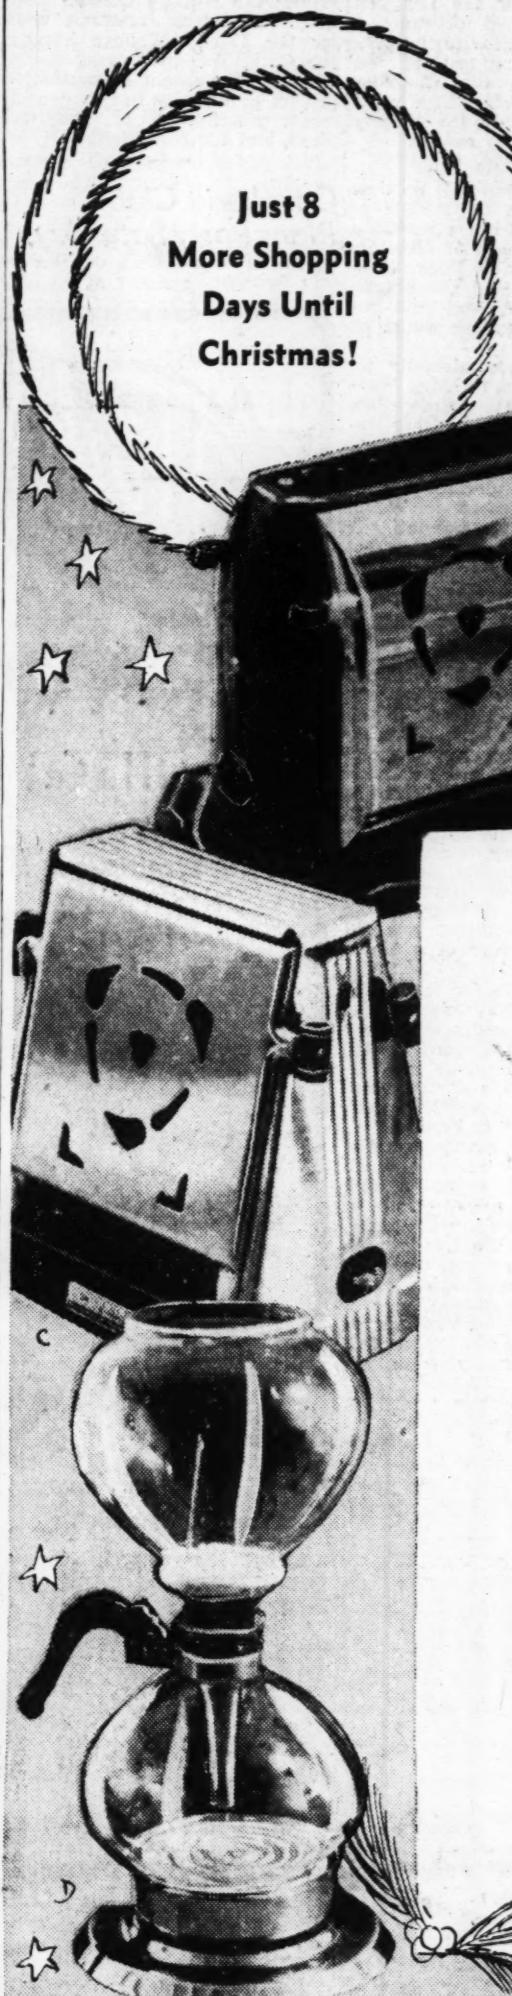

Mrs. Fowler Fêtes
Miss Georgia Bohn.

One of the most delightful affairs of yesterday was the tea at which Mrs. Forrest Fowler entertained at her home on Brookhaven drive in compliment to Miss Georgia Bohn, one of the most attractive members of the 1939-40 Debutante Club.

Receiving with Mrs. Fowler and Miss Bohn were Mrs. R. M. Bohn, the honor guest's mother, and her grandmother, Mrs. George Sharkey. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames George Suggs, Joseph Read, Harry Boon, Francis Dwyer, and George Sheffield. Mrs. John Dickinson poured tea.

Centering the table in the dining room was a silver bowl containing an artistic arrangement of red roses flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding gleaming red tapers. Bowls containing graceful bouquets of chrysanthemums, gladioli, and roses formed the decorations in the living room.

Invited to meet Miss Bohn were the members of the 1939-40 Debutante Club and a few friends of the hostess.

Buffet Supper Fete
Miss Elizabeth See
And Lee Shackelford

By CARY WILMER.
Garlands of rich greenery and clusters of bright holly featured the buffet supper given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winship on Peachtree Way honoring Miss Elizabeth See and Lee Shackelford, of Wilmington, Del., whose marriage will be a brilliant event of this evening at the Cathedral of St. Philip.

The party followed the wedding rehearsal of the couple, and hosts included Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Harris Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winship, Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun McDougal, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Willard See, and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Molner.

Centering the buffet table in the dining room was a silver tureen containing white calla lilies interspersed with red and white rubrum lilies flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding gleaming white tapers. Silver urns of rubrum lilies graced the ends of the table.

Present were members of the bridal party and members of the immediate families.

How Casual Idea Was Developed Into Colossal Junior League Ball

By CARY WILMER.

Last February it was just an idea—"Let's give a dance"—tossed off in a casual conversation between two members of the Atlanta Junior League.

Last night it was the "Gone With the Wind Ball"—the most scintillating celebration in the south's history, attracting what was perhaps the most colorful gathering of dignitaries ever assembled under one roof.

Rivaling in color and brilliance any function that Hollywood, New York, or points in between have ever offered, it was a triumph on all sides and an everlasting credit to the Junior League, which conceived the plan and then carried it through to such a magnificent conclusion.

No Simple Task.

It was anything but a simple task—just ask any of the 400 members—and the difficulties encountered and successfully overcome might well have stopped an organization any less determined and any less capable and efficient.

But the results of months of arduous work will not soon be forgotten. First, because the ball means an estimated $10,000 for the support of the League's various charitable activities during the coming year. Then, too, it centered the eyes of the entire nation on Atlanta in a way which is without precedent.

Who started the idea? How did it happen to carry out? How did it happen to create such intense widespread interest? What had to be done to make the event such an outstanding success? Who did it?

These are a few of the questions, asked hundreds of times over during recent weeks, which this story will attempt to answer.

Story Broke in February.

To begin at the beginning, it was in February that all three Atlanta papers carried stories to the effect that the world premiere of the film version of Margaret Mitchell's phenomenally successful novel would be held in Atlanta—eventually.

The stories appeared on a Sunday morning. Among a few hundred thousand persons reading them were two sisters, Mrs. William Parker and Mrs. Malon Courts, both members of the Atlanta League. Talking the question over, they decided it might not be such a bad plan for the League to sponsor a dance in connection with the premiere to raise a little money.

It was later the same day that Mrs. Parker happened to meet Mrs. Green Warren, at that time chairman of the League's ways and means committee and ever on the alert for anything that even looked like it might have a profit-making angle.

Was It a Good Idea?

Did Mrs. Warren think it might be a good idea? Mrs. Warren did. But definitely. In fact she thought it would be an even better idea if the dance was turned into a costume ball, with those attending wearing costumes of the Civil War period and with the auditorium decorated to resemble as nearly as possible the charity bazaar scene from the book.

But would the general public be willing to support such a function? Could they fill the auditorium? Was it really a good idea or did they just think it was? They weren't sure but they became very busy in trying to find out. It would be a big job and a hard job at best but it wouldn't be the first big job the League had ever tackled—and licked.

Went to Miss Mitchell.

Under the circumstances there was just one person in the world whose opinion about the advisability of such a project would really be worth something and who was in a position to say that it should or should not be carried through—Margaret Mitchell.

But first Mrs. Warren called Mrs. Joseph Cooper, at that time the League president, and obtained from her full permission to shoot the works. She then called Miss Mitchell, a schoolmate and friend of many years standing.

What did Miss Mitchell think of the idea of having a costume ball in connection with the premiere, sponsored by the League? Miss Mitchell thought it was little short of marvelous. Would Miss Mitchell be willing to give the League help and advice on just how to go ahead with its plans? Miss Mitchell would—gladly.

Author Given Full Credit.

Miss Mitchell did. And the members of the Atlanta League would like it clearly understood by all that without her help and guidance there could have been no ball. To them she is just as much responsible for that as for the premiere itself.

It was from her that Mrs. Warren obtained the leads to two other persons who for many months played a vital part in making the preliminary plans and preparations and whose wholehearted cooperation made possible the event's overwhelming success.

They are David O. Selznick, the producer of the picture, and Catherine Brown, his New York representative, who actually had to bear the brunt of the long months of correspondence incident to the maze of complicated details which had to be handled over a period of several months.

League Thanks Producer.

To them, too, the League will be eternally grateful for their vital assistance. Without them, and Miss Mitchell, it just couldn't have been done. And the League wants the world to know it.

This assurance of help, however, was only the beginning. It was the members of the League who actually had to do the work. And it took them just about 10 months of continuous effort.

The obstacles, at times, were heartbreaking. First and foremost, there was no definite assurance in February that the premiere would be held in Atlanta. Not even Selznick himself was positive at that time and Miss Mitchell frankly and truthfully said she just plain didn't know.

But the League kept hoping and MRS. GREEN WARREN.

MRS. COLQUITT CARTER.

MRS. MALON COURTS.

kept working, confident they would get a break if it was humanly possible to arrange it. As always means chairman and, since October, as regional director, the real burden of the job fell on Mrs. Warren.

Under her direction, with the help of Mrs. Cooper, last year's president, and Mrs. Colquitt Carter, who succeeded her in October, two separate organizations were set up, production with Mrs. Malon Courts as general chairman, and business, with Mrs. Martin Kilpatrick as general chairman.

Under production, seven subcommittees were appointed in charge of 12 chairmen and co-chairmen. Under business six committees were set up in charge of 12 other chairmen and co-chairmen. And with this organization as a nucleus, the League pithed in.

One Group to Push Tickets.
It is something of a joke now that one of the committees was named for the sole purpose of contacting other organizations to request them to buy blocks of tickets. This, it turned out later, was not a necessary part of the preliminary program.

There followed months and weeks of hard work—and hoping. Mayor Hartsfield, among others, gladly offered to do anything possible to help the cause along. Everybody, in fact, was helpful, but still no definite word from Hollywood.

In the absence of any definite assurance of an Atlanta opening, the League wisely refrained from any public announcement of its plans. And several things developed which gave them several varieties of jitters.

Feared Premiere Change.
First and foremost was a report that the premiere would be held in New York—not Atlanta. Frankly officials in charge appealed merce, ignorant of the League's plans, was reported planning a dance in connection with the premiere. At the request of the League, however, the Chamber graciously withdrew. The same thing happened with the Variety Club with the same result.

Still No Date Set.

So far so good but still no time had been set. In the middle of October, Mrs. Warren attended a meeting of the board of directors of the League in New York. In a last, desperate appeal she begged Miss Brown to try and find out just when the premiere would be.

This time it was virtually all set. The premiere, for Mrs. Warren's confidential information, would be in Atlanta on either December 14 or 15. And the final drive was under way.

One other important point remained to be cleared up. Would the stars of the movie attend? This, too, at long last, was settled in the League's favor.

Ticket Demand Staggering.

The rest of the story is more or less common knowledge. The League members, at the start, had no conception of what the "Let's give a dance" suggestion was going to mean when it was finally worked out or just how staggering the demand for tickets was going to be.

They rearranged the entire seating plan to accommodate as many additional persons as possible, and, contrary to some mistaken impressions, sold the tickets on a "first come, first served" basis. Nobody is as sorry as the officials in charge that it was impossible to take care of a larger number.

"It is impossible for the members of the Atlanta Junior League to express the appreciation we feel toward the public and toward all the individuals who contributed to the success of the occasion," Mrs. Warren said last night.

Proud of Part in Festival.

"While we are highly gratified by the financial returns which will enable us to carry on with our charitable activities, even more than that we are proud indeed to have had a hand in an undertaking which we hope has given Atlanta a celebration which long will be remembered."

And here is a brief resume of the League's charities which will benefit so materially from the ball:

drives for children; research work for the Family Welfare Society; the Child Welfare sewing group; work for the infant immunization project of the city health department; presentation of children's plays, and the Marionettes.

fashioned dance at the club house, 1398 Peachtree street.

A special musical program has been arranged by Bill Presley, Bill Goodman and Juanita Clarke.

Each member is invited to take part in the festivities, and prizes will be awarded for the prettiest old fashion costume.

The judges will be William McMillan, Mrs. Lucile Dickey, Britt Orr and Bud Rawlins. Further information may be obtained by phoning Miss Mae Bray, HE-9196.

Lovely Kentuckian Attends Ball With Friends Met on Shipboard

By Sally Forth.

AMONG the most attractive visitors attending last evening's never-to-be-forgotten Junior League ball was Mrs. Jonathan Edwards, of Lyndon, Ky., who entered the auditorium escorted by that popular Atlanta, Edwin Peebles. And thereby hangs a story.

When Edwin, his mother, Mrs. Edwin Peebles, and his sister, Mrs. Frank O. Walsh Jr., the former Robyn Peebles, went to Europe in the summer of 1938 they booked passage on the New Amsterdam. On the passenger list was the attractive Mrs. Edwards, and during the crossing the Atlantans and the Kentucky matron had many good times together. Although the Peebles and Mrs. Edwards did not book passage on the same ship for their return from Europe, their paths crossed again during visits in New York en route home.

Last week during the news broadcast of a famous commentator, it was announced that Mrs. Edwards, who is one of Kentucky's most beautiful widows, would soon become the bride of Fritz Mandel, the former husband of Hedy Lamarr. The news was received with surprise and interest by the Peebles family who, like all of America, was listening in. In a gesture of friendship in remembrance of the good times on shipboard, Edwin wrote Mrs. Edwards to wish her happiness and offer congratulations to the groom-elect. And, he added, "If you are anywhere near Atlanta when we have the G. W. T. W. festivities, mother, sister and I would like having you as our guest as a grand celebration before the marriage."

A delighted acceptance arrived from Mrs. Edwards, who is the former Laura Selinda Drane, and she is now a guest at the Peebles home on Fourteenth street, contributing charm and interest to every affair her presence graces.

LOCK BOXES and trunks were invaded yesterday by Atlanta socialites in search of ante-bellum trinkets with which to accent their gowns for last evening's brilliant Junior League costume ball. Dainty cameos, old-fashioned lockets, lavaliers and brooches came "into their own again" for the illustrious occasion, and Sally predicts that they will not soon be returned to oblivion.

Mrs. Warner Martin's handsome jewelry was given to her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph E. Brown, by the latter's husband, Governor Brown, who was the only governor to occupy the mansion in Milledgeville during Civil War days. The set includes a beautiful brooch and earrings fashioned of diamonds set in old gold, which offset to advantage Mrs. Martin's gown of black velvet, made with a tight basque, long sleeves and a bustle formed of ruffles.

Debutante Georgia Adams presented a quaint appearance at last evening's ball wearing the two wide gold bracelets which belonged to her great-grandmother, Mrs. Georgia Hoyle, and a turquoise necklace set in gold, the former possession of Georgia's grandmother. The jewelry accented the deb's gown of gold and cream brocade.

Mrs. Willis Wendt was a charming figure wearing the onyx and pearl pin and earrings of her maternal great-grandmother, with her black velvet gown edged with tracery lace.

The old-fashioned red and blue plaid taffeta gown worn to the ball by Mrs. Frank Troutman belonged to the popular Atlanta's grandmother, Mrs. John Henry Bitting, of Dalton, whose husband was a captain in the Confederate army. Mrs. Bitting, daughter of an American Revolutionary officer, lived to be 90 years old. She was a charter member of the Daughters of the Confederacy, Dalton chapter, and was presented a "real daughter" pin by the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.

Mrs. Troutman's sister, Mrs. Fred Knight, of Cartersville, donned Mrs. Bitting's wedding dress for last evening's brilliant occasion.

THERE will be unusual significance in the appearance at the G. W. T. W. premiere this evening of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan V. Gress, of Jacksonville, who will attend with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haden. Mr. and Mrs. Gress, as you know, gave the city the handsome Cyclorama depicting the Battle of Atlanta, and when they attend the premiere they will see movieland's version of the same battle in color and in action.

WHEN stately Elizabeth See becomes Mrs. Lee Shackford this evening, she will wear an exquisite rose point lace coronet from which will fall the graceful folds of her long tulle veil. The lace used to fashion the coronet bears great sentiment, for it was bought many years ago in Brussels by the bride-elect's grandmother, the late Mrs. James W. See. And it has been used for trimming dresses in the family on several very auspicious occasions.

THE picture of the quaint little street car drawn by two slow-footed horses, which was culled from the pages of Regenstein's family album and reproduced in yesterday's Atlanta Constitution, brought back memories to several Atlantans. None other than Mrs. Inman Sanders (Catherine Gay) occupied the seat with the black-moustached driver.

Within the street car were Mrs. Thomas B. Paine (Douglas Gay) and her brother, the late Ewell Gay, seated beside their colored nurse. As children of very tender ages, they boarded the street car every morning at Currier street to ride to the end of the line. The vehicle traveled up Peachtree street to Ponce de Leon avenue, and came to a dead stop in front of the home of Mrs. Samuel M. Inman. As the picture was taken in the good old summer-time, the trees in Mrs. Inman's yard formed an effective background.

Mrs. Sanders and the driver were exceedingly chummy and he frequently allowed the little girl to drive the horses when almost in sight of the destination of the street car line. She states that her mother thought the daily street car ride was a very easy and happy way to entertain her fidgety little children.

COMPLETING Mrs. Peter Godfrey's gown last evening was an exquisite shawl embroidered in varicolored silk thread, the former possession of the Trowbridge family of Devonshire, Eng. Made in Persia, the shawl is the only one of its type in this country, except the Frances Scott Key shawl, which is now in the Metropolitan Museum.

Camp Fire Girls To Give Breakfast.

The Camp Fire Girls will entertain at their annual doll breakfast Saturday at 8:45 o'clock, at S&W cafeteria.

Board of directors will receive the guests at the door.

Mesdames J. C. Malone, president; Tom Brooke, Arthur Anderson, E. L. Bishop and Byron Mathews and Miss Norine Sears will receive gowns in costumes of the "Gone with the Wind" period.

Groups of Camp Fire Girls throughout the Atlanta Council have been dressing dolls gowned in costumes of the 1860 period. The dolls will be official "doll hostesses" of the breakfast and will be placed on display. The dolls brought and presented during the grand march will be given to the Salvation Army toy store.

The program will consist of a choral reading by Tankinah group of North Avenue Presbyterian church, "The Night Before Christmas," by Clement Moore. Taking part will be Barbara Carpenter, Mary Garner, Alice Lawrence, Joanne Rae, Ray King, Thelma Jo Kerr, Roberta MacLagan, Pam Hayes, Maribelle Calkins, Elizabeth Whittner, Anne O'Sullivan, Mary Ann Pogue, Nancy Lee Drummond, Alice Jean Caswell, with Miss Bessie Sharp, their leader, and Miss Capitola Mattingly.

Miss Jeanne Turner will direct a chorus of Kinkiwai group, of Druid Hills school. Mrs. W. A. Dobson is the guardian of the group. In the chorus singing Christmas songs are Julianne Cook, Mary Elizabeth Jackson, Peggy Clark, Kathryn Graf, Carmine Shaver, Julia Ann Dobson, Polly Paxton, Jean Bodine, Mary Belle Waddington, Betty Atwood, Betty Manley, Virginia Lee Allen, Mary Duggan and Beverly Fohlson.

Reservations may be made by phoning Walnut 3738, the Camp Fire Girls' office, before 5 o'clock today.

Novel "Scarlett" Perfume Presentation Is Ideal for Christmas Gift

Jumbo Lipstick Boasts Super Sized Refill

By Lillian Mae.

Perhaps you've never thought of a lipstick as a Christmas gift. But I've found one in my peregrinations that it would delight my soul to receive at Christmas or any other time.

It is of sufficient size that it wouldn't get lost in the maze of things that compose the contents of my hand bag, to be very personal. And it is so constructed that it isn't just a lipstick but a permanent one in the real sense of the word.

The case is handsome rounded affairs of burnished gold, and looks like a series of broad wedding rings such as our grandmothers wore. The inner case works in the manner of a telescope, folding down automatically as the lipstick is used, so that every bit of it, down to the last thin layer is available for use. Then you simply purchase a refill—for half the original cost of the lipstick. Thus lipstick perpetual motion goes on.

In this way, you can change the color of your lip tint at any time. Each refill comes in the same mammoth size as the original, and in its own metal base so that your fingers need never touch the lipstick itself. You simply insert it in the case and with a flick of your fingers fasten it securely.

Don't get the idea that this is just a novelty, with cosmetic of a questionable nature. It is designed by one of the foremost beauty authorities in the world, and each refill is the highest quality product. Into it, I'm told, is put an ingredient that duplicates the natural moisture found in glowing young lips—intensifying it in lips that are still young, and renewing it in lips that have lost the necessary-to-beauty quality.

This is a popular priced item, in spite of all the new ideas, but the designer-manufacturer has created also 14-carat versions of the same design—one plain and one set with jewels, for the more fastidious fens, for gifts from the bride to her bridesmaids, or for the bride herself.

In a gleaming plastic with gold finish bottle which is the figure of a woman, there is a new cologne that the shops tell me is going "like wild fire."

Separating her well molded waist and voluminous skirt there is a colorful ribbon "sash." And this unique bottle stands within a transparent box.

There are two fragrances of this new cologne; one sprightly delicate and gay; the other warm, sensuous, bewitching.

This truly beautiful and novel presentation is ideal for the person on your Christmas list who is hard to please. And the price—though you wouldn't believe it—is only $1.

Phone me, and I'll tell you the name of this new supersize ornamental lipstick and this novel perfume and the stores at which they may be purchased. If you do not live in the city, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Tailored Wrap-around Coat Dress

By Barbara Bell.

Minimum requirements for an opening one-suit bid are 2 1/2 honor-tricks with a good rebidding suit or 3 honor-tricks with but one suit to bid. But, these are bare minimum requirements and opener might conceivably hold as much as 5 1/2 honor-tricks and still prefer to open the bidding at one.

The obligation of opening bidder's partner, known as responder, to keep the bidding open, when second hand passes, is very strong today, because few openings are made without, at least, a potential rebid in hand.

KING AND QUEEN.

To pass partner's opening bid, after second hand has passed, sounds a warning to opener that responder's hand is so weak it contains less than one honor-trick. But, holding as little as one honor-trick, divided in two suits, responder's partner should get into action, often times with less than one honor-trick.

The Culbertson system provides two means of keeping the bidding open for partner, and, at the same time, warning opener that the hand is definitely limited in strength.

WARNING RESPONSES.

(1) A single raise in partner's bid suit.

(2) The negative one no-trump takeout.

Neither response guarantees more than one honor-trick and both are non-forcing, which means if opener continues with the bidding, it is at his own risk.

The single raise promises at least normal support for partner's bid suit, at least Q x x or x x x in trumps, and a hand containing about one honor-trick minimum. The one no-trump takeout does not necessarily include normal trump suit.

Assume partner has opened the bidding. You hold:

S-K 6 5 D-8 7 4

H-5 3 2 C-Q 7 3 2

If the opening bid was one spade or one club, you would raise to two. If the bidding opened one heart or one diamond, you would respond one no-trump because you respond one no-trump because you lack normal trump support required to raise. A one hand no-trump takeout, when second hand passes, is also permissible holding a king and two jacks, or three Queens, as:

S-K 6 5 D-J 8 7

H-5 3 2 C-Q 7 3 2

(1) H-J 6 3 C-7 6 4

S-8 7 D-Q 7 4 3

(2) H-Q 7 6 5 C-Q 10 7

Outside a pass, the single raise is generally accepted the two weakest responses in bridge. Both responses warn partner to proceed with caution unless his hand is unusually strong.

Reducing Rules Make It Easier To Stay Slim

By Ida Jean Kain.

Many women go on reducing diets, probably 75 per cent of all women diet at one time or another. Of that number, about 50 per cent regain all their overweight by overeating, and the other 25 per cent neglect their exercise and lose their figures anyway. Figures prove that only a small percentage live happily ever after!

As soon as you are nice and slim you find that you can eat about as you please without gaining any weight. "This is wonderful," you think. "It's too good to be true!" It is—and it doesn't last!

Just go back to your old, comfortable habit of overeating at bridge luncheons, afternoon teas and de luxe dinners, and your slimming will be about as permanent as a bath. You have only to give yourself time and you will regain every single pound that you fought and dieted off!

Your chance of staying slim depends on retaining some of the dietary and exercise habits that slimmed you down. All that takes is sensible eating, coupled with a certain amount of regular exercise. But disregard those two slimming measures and you will be shocked at the speed with which the scales can climb back to their former high level.

Keep right on with the balanced menus. They contain the protective foods you need and you could never gain weight on a diet built around the protective foods, plus a few extras to meet your energy requirements. The extras will allow you to pick and choose among the foods you particularly like. But be careful! Watch your calorie chart to see that you do not go beyond your calorie needs.

A few of your reducing rules will make it very much easier for you to keep slim. You should never go back to eating the fat part of the meat—you can have twice as much lean meat for the same number of calories!

You can have one or even two slices of bread per meal, but no more. And don't forget that whole wheat bread is the kind you really need.

It's awfully easy to slip back into the habit of two or three pats of butter with each meal. That's no way to keep slim! Now that you are not counting calories too closely you are apt to overlook the butter used in cooking. No matter how you take it, one small pat, one-fourth inch thick, contains 50 calories and you are not likely to shave the butter that closely.

As long as you stay slim, you will have to guard against the pastries and desserts that were almost depleted entirely from your reducing menus. Those two items did not help you to get slim and they won't help you to stay that way.

Exercise is still highly important. Even though you watch your diet so that a gain in weight is impossible, lack of exercise will cause your muscles to grow soft and your measurements to spread.

Here are two basic rules that will help you to keep the lovely figure right on. Never let the scales go up more than three pounds without curbing the calories, and never let a day go by without 15 minutes of exercise.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How can a rug be cleaned without a vacuum cleaner so that the house will not be filled with dust? We live on a dirt road and our carpets get very dusty.

A. Soak newspapers in warm water and squeeze out the water until the paper is dry enough not to drip. Tear in small pieces and scatter over the carpet. Sweep slowly with a good broom, beginning in the center of the room. Sweep half one of the room at a time. The moist paper will keep the dust from flying and the moisture will be good for the carpet.

Q. Does vaseline make hair grow on the face?

A. There is no proof that vaseline or other greasy preparations make hair grow.

Q. About how much water should be used in a home humidifier when the room temperature is kept at 70 degrees Fahrenheit?

A. At least a gallon a day.

MY DAY: Fruit Must Find New Market at Home

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON—In our preparation for Christmas this year, I hope very much that we will take into consideration the fact that certain products of this country, which have had a market in Europe, are temporarily laboring under great difficulties because that market has been shut off. If we could feature, during the holiday season, a greater use of these particular products, we would learn to like them and go on using them throughout the year. For instance, the apples which are shipped from the states of Oregon, Virginia and many other places have had to find a home market this year. Drives have been made in various parts of the country to interest people in using more apples for cooking. I am sure that oranges and grapefruit are affected also, and now that there has been a change in the freight rate situation, we should be able to get these fruits throughout the country at more reasonable prices.

There are many other things which we grow in different parts of this country and which should become part of our daily diet, both for the sake of health and for the sake of helping our own growers.

The other day I was sent an extremely interesting letter from a woman, who after four years on WPA, with odd jobs of various kinds to fill in, finds that her family today is forced back on relief. She speaks of the humiliation which the procedure brings and the fact that the people involved lose "personal pride and self esteem sacred to the individual." She ends her letter with the following paragraphs:

"Looking at all these miserable, frustrated, unused people, we cannot help thinking that the difference between our plight and that of the European refugees is only one of degree.

"We, who are the disinherited, who are forced to become public charges in spite of every effort on our part, conclude that the long-time tragedies of peace may be more devastating, if allowed to continue, than those of war. Whatever the cause of this state of being, until democratic society can find a dignified use for all the individuals who comprise it, there can be no peace."

I don't think there is any way in which we can save people from relief registration, but I do think that letters of this kind should remind us of the necessity of continuing to solve our own economic problems. There are people who do not want steady work even when given the opportunity, but in a really successful democracy, those who do want work should find work. The solution to this problem requires the co-operation of every group and every individual in every community, and none of us should close our eyes at night unless we feel we have given whatever we have to give towards the solving of these problems.

Miss Josephine Harrel, a young colored pianist, gave us a short program of music after dinner last night. She has power and a finished technique and plays with real feeling, which made every minute enjoyable to all of us.

Marlene Dietrich's Leading Men Outnumber Mae West's

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—Joel McCrea or Walter Huston will get the role of Davy Crockett in Paramount's "Sunrise in My Pocket," by Edwin Justus Mayer. The play, which centers round the Alamo, was all set for Broadway production when Paramount stepped in and offered Mayer $40,000 for the movie rights, plus $20,000 to write the scenario, on condition that it be made into a movie first. This is a reversal of the usual procedure, when a play has to be produced on Broadway before film producers are interested. Production is scheduled for January.

Carole Lombard has been offered $125,000 to play the lead in William Wellman's "F. O. B. Detroit." Her usual price is $25,000 more, but I think she will accept—as much because of her friendship with Wellman as for the fact that she will have almost as much left from $125,000 as from $150,000—after paying state and federal income tax.

Clifford Odets is trying to get a movie company interested in the Broadway backing of his latest play—"Night Music"—with John Garfield as the hero. Warners may do it . . . Lewis Howard, the blase "heavy" in Deanna Durbin's last picture, "First Love," gets a repeat job in her next—"It's a Repeat." . . . Brenda Joyce has a good part in the Twentieth Century-Fox biography of Brigham Young. But first you will see her in the soon-to-be-released "Little Old New York."

Having studied the subject for many years, with a critical if not skeptical mind, I have boiled it all down to a vest pocket manual; 70 pages, handy to read when you are riding home or when—well, whenever you have a few moments to read—a Little Lesson in the Ways of Health, called "The Seven Keys to Vite." A 25-cent coin which will stand the bite test and a 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address will bring a copy of the manual in time to start your vite building program with the new year.

Some time after our readers and Ol' Doc Brady had introduced the new word and defined it and everything, some erudite correspondent informed us that vite is not a new word at all, for the French have used it for centuries and in France, it means quick, fast, speedily, lively. That's all right with us. We're willing to concede that it means not only what is included in the formal definition but also, if you like, sprightly, lively, with spirit or animation, vigorous, vivacious, nimble, spry, ardent or fit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Apology for $10 Word.

Have enjoyed your column, postcards One Old Lady, but you are getting too technical. I am not interested in "electro-galvanic phenomena." Give us everyday talks about everyday ailments.

Answer—I used the $10 term because I was quoting the title of an article on galvanic sore mouth. I don't blame anybody for protesting—I'll try to give everyday talks about both ailments. We doctors just do on long words wherever we can substitute one for a shorter word. Present day medical literature is pretty much like that: the authors don't care what it means as long as they can use resounding terms to say it.

Sea-lions differ from true seals in that they can turn their hind legs forward and use them to hobble on land; whereas in a true seal the rear flippers trail behind like a fish's tail.

The music for "Gone with the Wind" is costing David Selznick $70,000. When the final adding up on this epic is done, a grand expense total of $5,000,000 is expected. Phew! . . . Alice Faye will be co-starred with Zorina in a Sam Goldwyn musical based on the Hergesheimer story, "Natchez." An intriguing title—"Bedtime Story" for the next Columbia picture for Irene Dunne and Cary Grant. The pair are currently emoting in RKO's "My Favorite Wife." . . . The Charles Laughton-Vivien Leigh London-produced epic, originally titled "St. Martin's Lane," then "London After Dark," then "Partners of the Night," will come to you as "The Sidewalks of London"—unless they change it again.

Spencer Tracy plays the lead in "The Yearling"</i

David O. Selznick, producer of "Gone with the Wind," explains to interviewers he is content with his effort to bring to life visually Margaret Mitchell's epic, and that it will not be cut, at least for year. Selznick reached Atlanta late yesterday for the festivities.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which work contains the ciples of the cardinal traditions of the Jewish people, dating back as far as 3,000 years.)

QUESTIONS I'VE BEEN ASKED.
Is it true that Jews are forbidden to marry during July?

There are certain days during the year when weddings are forbidden.

Among these are the three weeks from the seventeenth day of the Jewish month of Tammuz (the Fast of Tammuz) until the ninth of the Jewish month of Av (the Fast of Av). In 1939 those dates fall upon July 4 and 25, respectively, so that orthodox Jewish marriages may not be held from July 4 to July 25, although they are permitted any other time in July.

What proportion of the wealth of the United States is in the hands of the Jews?

There are no figures available as to what proportion of the wealth of the United States is in the hands of the Jews. Several years ago, though, Fortune magazine carried an article which indicated that the Jewish ownership of the wealth of the United States was in proportion to its population and the Jewish population of the United States is about 3 per cent of the population of the country. If we base on estimate upon that figure, the proportion of the wealth of the United States in the hands of the Jews is approximately 3 per cent.

Why do Jews on visiting Jerusalem for the first time rend their garments?

Orthodox Jews, on approaching Jerusalem for the first time, say a special prayer and rend their garments in memory of its destruction by the Romans in the year 70.

"I'm havin' my party Tuesday night. I had to invite Jane and Luke, and that's the only night they'll be out of town."

for the last point, and you suddenly realize you have been sitting out in the crisp autumn air all afternoon, the prospect of a big dinner is good news. It's even better if you had Cornfield Pure Pork Sausage served with the appetizers before dinner. Tell your dealer to include some in your next order.
